BIG CONVENTIONS OF STATE ARE COMING TO BISMARCK DURING YEAR; TWO NEW ONES AWARDED TO CITY

State Teachers and Laundrymen's Associations Are the Latest to be Added to Association of Commerce List of Gatherings for the City.

Many local agencies are busily engaged now in preparing for many large conventions to be held in Bismarck this year.

With duties for several already fixed, Bismarck is facing the task of handling the largest convention of the year, the North Dakota Educational Association. The executive committee, in meeting in Grand Forks, decided on Bismarck as the place for the convention. The dates are not chosen, but the convention probably will be in October, this year.

On June 5, 6 and 7, 160 to 225 dentists will gather here for the state dental association convention. On one night of the convention the visitors will attend the performance of Walter Whiteside in "The Hindu" at the Auditorium.

The state postal convention meets here June 15 and 16. Postmaster H. T. Murphy has issued invitations to 720 postmasters and expects at least 500 to be here. Postmaster-General Harry S. New in a letter to the Association of Commerce states that he will be represented by one or more of the assistant postmasters-general and other officials.

The state bankers' convention, June 27, 28 and 29, will bring 500 to 600 bankers and their wives here, and some of the most prominent men in the business world. Roger Babson, noted statistician and business expert, is expected to be on the program. The local committee has arranged for much entertainment, including a ball in the statehouse, golf tournament, country club party and roof garden party. The local committee was disappointed today in receiving word from the Schubert enterprise that "The Pasing Show" would not go to the Pacific Coast this year. It had been hoped to have the show at the Auditorium one night during the convention. However, other elaborate entertainment is being prepared.

The state druggists' convention will come here in August.

The Association of Commerce, which has enlisted itself in obtaining for Bismarck many large state conventions, will seek the co-operation of local people in extending a hearty welcome to all of the visitors during the year.

Get 1924 Meeting

The North Dakota Laundrymen's convention will meet here in May, 1924, through the efforts of W. B. Couch of the Capital Steam Laundry who represented Bismarck at the recent convention in Grand Forks. BIBLE SCHOOL OPENS MONDAY

Will Hold Classes at Will School Under Direction Of Rev. L. R. Johnson

Final arrangements for the opening of the third session of the Bismarck Vacation Bible School were made yesterday by the Council of Religious Education. Permission has been secured from the school board to use the Will School for class work. Registration of pupils will be made by personal canvass on Saturday morning by volunteers from the churches, and the entire city will be visited. Cards will be left which the pupils will bring directly to the rooms in the Will School on Monday morning at nine o'clock where the work will begin at once.

The sessions of the school will be held in the morning only, from nine till twelve. There will be a recess for play under the direction of volunteers who will take charge of the supervised play which has been arranged for the children of the city this summer. Mr. MacLeod, the boy man, will give concert and assist in the play work of the school. There will be a large sand-pit, ball games and other play activities.

The instruction periods consist in story-telling, using the Bible and textbooks, hand work, singing, worship in one of the nearby churches. Care is being taken to provide teachers with teaching ability and the distinctly Christian point of view.

At the completion of the course, there will be special exercises in which the entire school will take part.

The cooperation of parents and teachers last year was very fine. There was an average attendance of two hundred, nearly that number completing the course and receiving certificates. A much larger enrollment is expected this year. The plans of the council have been endorsed by the Association of Commerce. There is no doubt of the close cooperation of parents for a successful session.

COTTON MILLS REDUCE OUTPUT

Shanghai, May 21.—The cotton mills of Shanghai have agreed to a reduced production schedule, for a period of 60 days, that will cut their output by 50 percent. This was brought about under an agreement approved by the Cotton Mill Owners' Association, and was caused by a weak and falling market for yarn at a time when high prices were ruling for raw cotton.

It was estimated that stocks of yarn in the hands of mills and merchants in Shanghai ran to 100,000 bales.

FOREIGNERS MUST ACT TO AID CAPTIVES

Further Negotiations Futile Unless There Is Foreign Representation

IN BAD SHAPE

Shanghai, May 21.—A Central News dispatch from Shanghai announces the release of Mrs. Emanuel Vera, wife of a Mexican manufacturer, who says that 14 male prisoners still held by the brigands are living under terrible conditions. Mrs. Vera was exhausted when she reached Shanghai.

Washington, May 21.—Further negotiations between the Chinese government authorities and the bandit leaders in Shantung "are futile" unless there is foreign representation on the Chinese government delegation, in the opinion of the American observers it was reported today to the state department.

The dispatches suggested that Roy Anderson, an American of long residence and intimate association with the bandits and government officials in China, might be chosen to negotiate with the brigands and be provided with "plenipotentiary powers." Otherwise a state department summary of the publication said: "The prisoners hope of early release of the prisoners is by direct foreign negotiation."

URGES INTERVENTION

Shanghai, China, May 21.—Dr. H. Martens, a physician, returning from a relief mission to the Shantung mountains where 14 prisoners are held by the bandits, reported today that the consensus of opinion among the captives was that foreign intervention was the only possible means of effecting their release. The bandits, Dr. Martens said, utterly refused to discuss Chinese officials and are anxious to deal with foreigners.

Chevalier Musso, wealthy Italian attorney of Shanghai wrote, saying bandits were still surrounded by troops. He urged direct negotiation between foreign officials and bandits, excluding Chinese from the parley.

Immediately steps should be taken, he added, otherwise "we will be killed. My state of health is very bad. I await death calmly."

The American Chamber of Commerce has telegraphed the American legation in Peking urging foreign negotiations and asking measures to effect immediate relief of the hostages with the employment of troops if necessary.

MINIMUM WAGE LAW TEST UP TO CONFERENCE

Grand Forks, May 21.—Any action that may be taken toward testing the constitutionality of the North Dakota minimum wage law by the Associated Industries of North Dakota will probably be largely determined during a conference of presidents and secretaries of employers and industrial associations of 42 states, which opened today at Chicago, according to R. E. Wenzel, secretary, who left yesterday at noon to attend the meeting.

Although the members of the Associated Industries, in annual convention here May 10, authorized such action, no steps were taken prior to the Chicago conference toward testing the constitutionality of the North Dakota law, it is said. It is believed that the Chicago conference will serve to clear up a number of matters with regard to minimum wage legislation in the various states so that a more definite line of action in North Dakota can be evolved, it is said.

During the course of the Chicago meeting, a special committee appointed last November to make a general survey of the workings of the minimum wage laws throughout the United States, will make its report, it is expected.

Mr. Wenzel will return to Grand Forks on May 25, according to present plans.

BISMARCK VET HEADS STATE ORGANIZATION

Oscar Selvig Elected by the D. V. A.—Resolutions Urge Peace For Nations

CONCLUDE WITH BANQUET

The state convention of the North Dakota Disabled American Veterans of the World War closed late Saturday with election of officers, adjournment of the convention, a drive about the city and at banquet at the Country Club.

Officers chosen were: State Commander—Oscar Selvig, Bismarck; Vice-Commander—Chas. E. Wilson, Fargo; Adjutant—Carl Knudsen, Bismarck; Treasurer—Val Swann, Bismarck; Delegate national convention—Retiring commander H. T. Patterson, Grand Forks.

Allen J. McDougall of Fargo was elected adjutant of the command, or, at the election at the national convention in Minneapolis this summer.

Resolutions renewed the allegiance of the veterans to the nation and the principles and ideals of the Government.

"We believe that in the late World War the government of the United States was drawn into a conflict by the necessity of saving to the world the ideals dear to the people of this nation," the resolutions read. "The scars of war are to the nation which so fought for a worthy purpose and to those men who willingly risked their all to preserve highly cherished rights, emblems of honor, but that the maimed and disabled bodies, the rows on rows of soldier dead, and the scarred and broken hearts of parents, relatives and friends of the victims of war are the emblem of civilization's disgrace. Men and women in the 20th century of the Christian era find better methods of settling their disputes than mortal combat and we believe that nations of the world should equally advance. We adjure the officers of our state and nation that they fail not to do all that is within their power to advance the peace and tranquility of the world, and we solemnly urge all such officials that the world's interests in peace may never be endangered by the expediencies of partisanship or of politics."

Resolutions commended the stand of the national officers of the D. V. A. for hospitalization of wounded veterans close to home, urged placing of rehabilitated men in employment which promise to develop jobs to make them economically independent, commended the Veterans Bureau the Legion program for a hospital in the Tenth (Northwest) Veterans Bureau district, and expressed appreciation to Governor Nestor for his welcome address and representatives of the Veterans Bureau and Legion party here.

CABINET HEAD QUILTS BECAUSE OF ILL HEALTH

Official Statement Made of The Resignation of Premier Bonar Law

DISCUSS NEW HEAD

Lord Curzon Generally Picked By Political Gossips As Next Premier

London, May 21.—Political gossips are almost unanimously of the opinion that Lord Curzon, Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, will be offered the premiership and that either he or Stanley Baldwin will be the successor to Andrew Bonar Law, who has resigned because of ill health.

Lord Derby also is spoken of as a possibility for the office. The Earl of Balfour's age is generally regarded as ruling him out, although it is suggested that he might take the Prime Ministership in the event— which at the moment is considered altogether unlikely—existing schemes in the Conservative ranks are healed and all agree to pull together.

The Daily Herald, Labor's new paper, says Curzon's appointment would be a disaster for Great Britain and Europe.

The parliamentary correspondent of The Times says he can state authoritatively that Mr. Bonar Law's throat complaint is not malignant and that there is every reason to hope his health in time will be restored. It also is understood that he will retain his seat in the House of Commons.

BONAR LAW'S STATEMENT

(Sunday)—By A. P. J. London. Andrew Bonar Law resigned today as premier of Great Britain.

A statement issued at Downing street, the official residence of the premier, said:

"Mr. Bonar Law's voyage did improve his health and on his return to London yesterday he was examined by medical advisers, consequence of whose advice a law immediately placed his resignation in the hands of his Majesty the King, who graciously was pleased to accept it."

HAS OPERATION

London, May 21.—The condition of Andrew Bonar Law, retiring premier of Great Britain, was stated by physicians as follows:

"Mr. Bonar Law had a slight operation of the throat today. Otherwise his condition is unchanged."

FRENCH REGRETS

Paris, May 21.—General regret felt in France at the retirement of Premier Bonar Law of Great Britain, and genuine sympathy is extended to him. His upright, honest conduct has been fully appreciated here notwithstanding differences of opinion between London and Paris.

All of the editorials seize the opportunity to have a fling at Lloyd George. L'Eclair, the French organ, says France can only regret the sudden retirement of the "who after Lloyd George's night more showed we still have friends in England."

FIND POPPIES GERMAN MADE

Cedar Rapids, Ia., May 21.—The paper poppie, bought by the American Legion Post here to celebrate Poppy Day May 26 were discovered today all to bear the label "Made in Germany." The Legion has called a meeting for tonight to decide whether to return them.

It has information also that several other Iowa cities have similarly labelled poppies.

MORTON SOLOMON IS STRICKEN

Erasmus R. Helbling, St. Anthony farmer, and member of the legislative assembly, suffered stroke of paralysis Saturday afternoon and is at the present time in a Bismarck hospital. Attending physicians say the paralysis of his right side probably will be only temporary.

MAKES APPEAL TO NATION

Columbia, S. C., May 21.—A nationwide appeal for funds for the relief of the women and children who were widowed and orphaned by the Cleveland school fire in which 77 persons perished, was issued today by Thomas G. McLeod, Governor of South Carolina. All funds raised will be handled by the American Red Cross, the Governor said.

FOREIGNERS MUST ACT TO AID CAPTIVES

Further Negotiations Futile Unless There Is Foreign Representation

DISPATCHES SUGGEST THAT AMERICAN OF LONG RESIDENCE BE GIVEN POWERS

IN BAD SHAPE.
Shanghai, May 21.—A Central News dispatch from Shanghai announces the release of Mrs. Emanuel Vera, wife of a Mexican manufacturer, who says that 14 male prisoners still held by the brigands are living under terrible conditions. Mrs. Vera was exhausted when she reached Shanghai.

Washington, May 21.—Further negotiations between the Chinese government authorities and the bandit leaders in Shantung "are futile" unless there is foreign representation on the Chinese government delegation, in the opinion of the American observers it was reported today to the state department.

The dispatches suggested that Roy Anderson, an American of long residence and intimate association with the bandits and government officials in China, might be chosen to negotiate with the brigands and be provided with "plenipotentiary powers." Otherwise a state department summary of the publication said: "The only hope of early release of the prisoners is by direct foreign negotiation."

URGES INTERVENTION.
Shanghai, China, May 21.—Dr. H. Martens, a physician, returning from a relief mission to the Shantung mountains where 14 prisoners are held by the bandits, reported today that the consensus of opinion among the captives was that foreign intervention was the only possible means of effecting their release. The bandits, Dr. Martens said, utterly discredit and distrust Chinese officials and are anxious to deal with foreigners.

Chevalier Musso, wealthy Italian attorney of Shanghai wrote, saying bandits were still surrounded by troops. He urged direct negotiation between foreign officials and bandits, excluding Chinese from the parley.

Immediately steps should be taken, he added, otherwise "we will be killed. My state of health is very bad. I await death calmly."

The American Chamber of Commerce has telegraphed the American legation in Peking urging foreign negotiations and asking measures to effect immediate relief of the hostages with the employment of troops if necessary.

NEW NOTE SENT.
Peking, China, May 21.—Reports that troops were firing on the Shantung bandits were received by the diplomatic corps which immediately drafted a new note to the foreign office asking the Chinese government how it reconciled its promises to procure release of the captives and events transpiring since that assurance.

MINIMUM WAGE LAW TEST UP TO CONFERENCE

Grand Forks, May 21.—Any action that may be taken toward testing the constitutionality of the North Dakota minimum wage law by the Associated Industries of North Dakota will probably be largely determined during a conference of presidents of associations of employers and industrial associations of 42 states, which opened today at Chicago, according to R. E. Wenzel, secretary, who left yesterday at noon to attend the meeting.

Although the members of the Associated Industries, in annual convention here May 10, authorized such action, no steps were taken prior to the Chicago conference to ward testing the constitutionality of the North Dakota law, it is said. It is believed that the Chicago conference will serve to clear up a number of matters with regard to minimum wage legislation in the various states so that a more definite line of action in North Dakota can be evolved, it is said.

During the course of the Chicago meeting, a special committee appointed last November to make a general survey of the workings of the minimum wage laws throughout the United States, will make its report, it is expected.

Mr. Wenzel will return to Grand Forks on May 25, according to present plans.

JUDGE HALLAM RESIGNS TO ENTER MINNESOTA SENATORSHIP RACE, AND NONPARTISANS ENDORSE JOHNSON

Primary Election Race For Toga of Late Knute Nelson Gathers Force, and Big Field of Candidates Is Expected—Governor Preus Silent on Own Intentions in the Matter

St. Paul, May 21.—Judge Oscar Hallam today resigned as a member of the state supreme court, effective Friday, to become a candidate for the Republican nomination for United States Senator in the primary election, June 18.

Judge Hallam said he would file his candidacy with the Secretary of State today.

Judge Hallam is the fourth man to announce definitely that he will seek to succeed the late Senator Nelson. The others are Sidney Anderson, representative in Congress from the First Minnesota district, Republican; Charles A. Linbergh, former congressman, farmer-labor party, and Congressman Thomas Schall, congressman from the Tenth district.

The election will take place July 16.

His Platform.
Judge Hallam in a statement of his views declared that if elected he would work "to accomplish what legislation may do to put a fair profit into the hands of the bulk producers, to secure to agriculture and labor the return to which they are justly entitled, to relieve the consumer from excessive profiteering, and particularly to secure the public against excessive exactions in the purchase of fuel, sugar and other staple necessities of life and generally to protect against oppression of the strong, the great mass of people who have no axes to grind, no special interests to turn, who want only a fair and square deal."

"I shall be at all times mindful of the obligations which the nation owes to the men who have fought its wars, and especially to those who have suffered disability in the service."

For Waterway.
Judge Hallam also announced he would seek adjustment of railroad transportation problems, better water transportation for the sea for the Northwest and "the establishment of a tribunal for the settlement of international problems and disputes and to that end secure world peace."

STONE APPOINTED.
St. Paul, May 21.—Governor J. A. O. Preus today announced the appointment of Royal Stone, St. Paul attorney, to succeed Judge Oscar Hallam of the state supreme court, whose resignation to become a candidate for the United States senate to succeed the late Senator Knute Nelson, was announced today. Mr. Stone will succeed Judge Hallam Friday when the judge's resignation becomes effective.

Mr. Stone recently appeared in federal court in Bismarck.

INDORSE JOHNSON.
Minneapolis, May 21.—Magnus Johnson, candidate for Governor of Minnesota at the last election, has been endorsed by the Nonpartisan League state committee as its candidate for United States senator to fill the vacancy.

Resolutions commended the stand of the national officers of the D. V. A. for hospitalization of wounded veterans close to home, urged placing of rehabilitated men in employments which promise to develop jobs to make them economically independent, commended to the Veterans Bureau the Legion program for a hospital in the Tenth (Northwest) Veterans Bureau district, and expressed appreciation to Governor Nestos for his welcome address and representatives of the Veterans Bureau and Legion party here.

CABINET HEAD QUILTS BECAUSE OF ILL HEALTH

Official Statement Made of The Resignation of Premier Bonar Law

DISCUSS NEW HEAD

Lord Curzon Generally Picked By Political Gossips As Next Premier

London, May 21.—Political gossips are almost unanimously of the opinion that Lord Curzon, Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, will be offered the premiership and that either he or Stanley Baldwin will be the successor to Andrew Bonar Law, who has resigned because of ill health.

Lord Derby also is spoken of as a possibility for the office. The Earl of Balfour's age is generally regarded as ruling him out, although it is suggested that he might take the Prime Ministership in the event— which at the moment is considered altogether unlikely—existing schisms in the Conservative ranks and healed and all agree to pull together.

The Daily Herald, Labor's newspaper, says Curzon's appointment would be a disaster for Great Britain and Europe.

The parliamentary correspondent of the Times says he can state authoritatively that Mr. Bonar Law's throat complaint is not malignant and that there is every reason to hope his health in time will be restored. It also is understood that he will retain his seat in the House of Commons.

BONAR LAW'S STATEMENT
(Sunday—By A. P.)
London, Andrew Bonar Law resigned today as premier of Great Britain.

A statement issued at Downing street, the official residence of the premier, said:

"Mr. Bonar Law's voyage did not improve his health and on his return to London yesterday he was examined by medical advisers in consequence of whose advice Mr. Law immediately placed his resignation in the hands of His Majesty the King, who graciously was pleased to accept it."

HAS OPERATION.
London, May 21.—The condition of Andrew Bonar Law, retiring prime minister of Great Britain, was stated by physicians as follows:

"Mr. Bonar Law had a slight operation of the throat today. Otherwise his condition is unchanged."

FRENCH REGRETS
Paris, May 21.—General regret is felt in France at the retirement of Premier Bonar Law of Great Britain, and genuine sympathy is extended to him. His upright, honest conduct has been fully appreciated here notwithstanding differences of opinion between London and Paris.

All of the editorials seize the opportunity to have a fling at Lloyd George. L'Eclair, the Briand organ, says France can only regret the sudden retirement of the man "who after Lloyd George's nightmarish showings still have two friends in England."

FIND POPPIES
GERMAN MADE

Cedar Rapids, Ia., May 21.—The reaper poppies bought by the American Legion Post here to celebrate Poppy Day May 26 were discovered today all to bear the label "Made in Germany." The Legion has called a meeting for tonight to decide whether to return them.

It has information also that several other Iowa cities have similarly labelled poppies.

MORTON SOLON IS STRICKEN

Erasmus R. Helbling, St. Anthony farmer, and member of the 103rd legislative assembly, suffered a stroke of paralysis Saturday afternoon and is at the present time in a Bismarck hospital. Attending physicians say the paralysis of his right side probably will be only temporary.

MAKES APPEAL TO NATION

Columbia, S. C., May 21.—A nationwide appeal for funds for the relief of the women and children who were widowed and orphaned by the Cleveland school fire in which 77 persons perished, was issued today by Thomas G. McLeod, Governor of South Carolina. All funds raised will be handled by the American Red Cross, the Governor said.

GROWER BODY IN OPERATION

Minneapolis, May 21.—The American Wheat Growers Inc., one of the largest farm cooperative societies in the world, will be set in operation when delegates from 12 states meet here today.

COTTON MILLS REDUCE OUTPUT

Shanghai, May 21.—The cotton mills of Shanghai have agreed to a reduced production schedule, for a period of 60 days, that will cut their output by 50 percent. This was brought about under an agreement approved by the Cotton Mill Owners' Association, and was caused by a weak and falling market for yarn at a time when high prices were ruling for raw cotton.

It was estimated that stocks of yarn in the hands of mills and merchants in Shanghai ran to 100,000 bales.

SPRINGS ARE FEATURE OF OVERLAND CAR

Triple Springs on the Overland car are a specially patented device with a great many superior qualifications. They are a unique method adopted by Overland engineers in mounting the springs so that the load of the Overland is carried as if cradled between the two extreme points of the car. The ends of the springs are 120 inches apart and the body rests on them just as if in a hammock. Everyone has at some time or another seen a man trying to push a wheelbarrow up over a curbstone.

The wheelbarrow wouldn't go so the man turned around and pulled it over, which demonstrates that what the man could not do by pushing could be done by pulling. The same principle applies to Overland Triple Springs. They extend from the extreme front end of the car down to the front axle and continually pull the front wheels over any and all obstacles and obstructions in the road.

The weight of each Overland spring is about twenty pounds and are made of chrome vanadium steel, carefully heat treated; so designed and assembled in the chassis that all road shocks are absorbed with minimum discomfort to the occupants of the car. These springs are oiled at one end only and in a very accessible location. A feature of the Overland Triple Springs is the apron covering the front springs which extends far enough forward to protect the radiator from the mud and dust and at the same time make a distinctly attractive front end.

These Triple Springs are also excellent "bumpers," extending as they do so far out in front beyond the front axle and radiator.

Great Demand For Fordson Tractors

Both agriculture and industry are making increasing demands for the Fordson Tractor.

While the use of the Fordson as a farm implement is extending in every agricultural section of the country as farmers come to realize the advantages and economy of power farming, a most noticeable feature of the sales is the growing use of this sturdy and dependable power plant in industrial and commercial activities.

Contractors and builders are everywhere adapting the Fordson to meet their needs for power, either moveable or stationary, and road engineers throughout the country are specifying its use with highway construction machinery.

To meet this growing demand for Fordson Tractors production is now at capacity and for the first three months of the year reached a total of 27,087 as compared with 8,340 for the same period a year ago.

HUDSON-ESSEX COACHES LIKED

Although they are light, Hudson and Essex coaches are among the toughest and strongest enclosed models made," says R. B. Loubek, local Hudson-Exses dealer. "One of the features is the pleasing absence in the enclosed cars of the 'rattle' sometimes heard in heavier machines," he continued.

"This lightness of all models is one of the big advantages. They are free from the sluggishness of the heavier closed styles, and are more economical in operation. Hudson and Essex have come into 1923 with the same line of cars which made 1922 a capacity year. There are no changes introduced.

"Essex likewise is continuing its improved car. But three body types are offered. It is significant that two of them are closed models. These are touring, cabriolet and coach.

"While few factories are making as high as 33 per cent of their output enclosed models, the Hudson Motor Car Company is hitting over 75 percent of production on its coaches. It is said that no other company in the industry is specializing in enclosed cars to such an extent. "Constant increase of this percentage is anticipated."

"The brick business lines of the Essex Cabriolet appropriately fit the car. It is a convenient and practical means of personal transportation. It is, proving popular for salesmen and other travelers, as well as the more conventional uses."

BATTALION OF CADETS Praised

Fargo, N. D., May 19.—Highly commendatory work by the cadet battalion of the North Dakota Agricultural College during the inspection Monday by a board of officers appointed by the War Department prompted the board to dispense with the inspection during the afternoon.

"The battalion did very splendid work and we have seen enough during our visit to satisfy us that the R. O. T. C. unit here is a well drilled organization," was the comment made by Major C. E. T. Lull, who with Capt. W. E. Bergin constitutes the board which is inspecting schools in eight central states, recommended for inspection for the distinguished rating awarded each year to a selected group of schools in the country.

Following a thorough survey of the military department, the College and theoretical military training, Saturday, May 12, a field inspection and parade was held Monday forenoon. Company A of the battalion, under Cadet Captain Frank N. Leakey, Trooper, was picked to receive the cup awarded by the military department of the college to the best drilled company. The three officers in the department are Major W. F. Harrell, Capt. Robert J. King, and Capt. William Evans.

PERMANENT ENAMEL BAKED ON STEEL

Eight years ago, when Dodge Brothers originated the all-steel motor car body, they took advantage of the absence of wood in the framework to bake an enamel finish on the surface of the steel.

In a vast series of electric ovens, especially designed and built by Dodge Brothers' engineers for this purpose, three distinct coats of black enamel are successively baked on the steel at an intensely high temperature.

The result is a finish so hardy and durable that it seldom requires more than a good cleaning and polishing to restore the original brightness.

Even in sections of the Southwest where alkali in the soil is especially destructive to body finishes, Dodge Brothers' enamel retains its beautiful lustre after years of wear.

The price of the Touring Car is $1030.00 delivered in Bismarck.

EVANGELICAL PASTORS ARE GIVEN POSTS

Fourth Annual Session of Conference Is Concluded At Wishek

MANY DELEGATES THERE

The North Dakota Conference of the Evangelical church just concluded its fourth annual session at Wishek Sunday night.

The session was one of the most successful and enthusiastic ever held by this organization. Bishop S. C. Breyfogle, D. D., Ph. D. of Reading, Pa. presided at the daily sessions and preached Sunday. The Bishop is one of the leading churchmen of this country and one of the most eloquent preachers every heard in this state.

About 30 ministers and 10 lay delegates were in attendance besides a large number of visitors from the neighboring towns and surrounding country.

The conference transacted much business of importance, among other things, that part of the Northwest Conference of the United Evangelical church which is located in this state, was merged with the North Dakota Conference of the Evangelical church. This includes churches at Balfour, Anamoose, Drake, Des Moines and Lisbon.

The conference adopted strong resolutions in favor of the strict enforcement of the prohibition law and the proper observance of Sunday as a day of rest. A decided stand was taken in favor of aggressive evangelism and of teaching and preaching the great fundamental doctrines of the Bible.

The preachers were appointed as follows:

Drastic Prohibition Laws Prevail In Minnesota

St. Paul, Minn., May 21—With the passage of amendments by the 1923 legislature to prohibition laws in effect, Minnesota stands out prominently in having the most drastic prohibition laws of any state in the Union.

Under the provisions of the new laws it is illegal to possess a formula, recipe or directions, which are designed for use, or used for, or in connection with the manufacture of intoxicating liquor. The law explains that it is also illegal to possess any apparatus, implements, machine or device, jugs and other containers, used in the manufacture or storing of liquor.

It further provides that the destruction of any apparatus, implement or machine, any recipe, formula or directions, or any container, is prima facie evidence that these were for use in connection with the manufacture or possession of liquor and that any building wherein liquor is sold is subject to abatement proceedings and closing for any kind of use for one year.

Convention to Discuss Lutheran Church Union

St. Paul, May 21—Ranking as the outstanding Norwegian church convention of the country, the triennial gathering of the Norwegian Lutheran Church of America will be held here June 7 to 15, with the local committee planning for 10,000 visitors.

One of the important issues to come before the convention is the proposed union of the church with the other Lutheran churches—the Lutheran Free church, the Icelandic Lutheran Synod, and the United Danish Lutheran church. Missionaries from China, India, Africa, and elsewhere will address the convention.

CROSS WITH FRANCE.

England is annoyed with France for rejecting Germany's Ruhr proposition without consulting her.

She says the offer was to her as well as to France and she was entitled to a voice. At the same time, she'd told Germany the proposal wasn't satisfactory anyway, but advises her to try again.

France has found Dr. Gustav Krupp von Bohlen, head of the Krupp industries, guilty of anti-French activity in the Ruhr, fined him 100 million marks, which is a trifle for him, and sent him to prison for 10 years, which is more serious.

GIVES ADDRESS TO 70 SENIORS AT AUDITORIUM

Dr. S. F. Halfyard Delivers Baccalaureate Sermon to High School Students

MUSICAL PROGRAM ALSO

The baccalaureate sermon to the seventy high school students in the 1923 graduating class was preached yesterday afternoon at the city Auditorium by Dr. S. F. Halfyard before a good size audience.

The exercises were opened with the singing of "America" by the audience. Dr. J. E. Ryerson, made the invocation, and pronounced the benediction. A piano solo, "Adoration" by Barowski was given by Mrs. John L. Hughes. Mrs. Arthur Bauer sang "Gloria" A Buzzi Peccia accompanied on the piano by Mrs. Hughes. The violin obligato was played by Donald McDonald.

Dr. Halfyard too with his text the words, "Who Went About Doing Good," and developed his subject by speaking on the three rules of life. The first rule is to learn something every day, the speaker said. Those who have been graduated from the schools are sometimes spoken of as having completed their education. They have received their diplomas and their education is finished. But the fact of the matter is that one's education is never completed. Nor should it be thought of as being finished. Education is life, and is therefore as continuous and as vast as life. Those who have finished the course at school should continue to study and to learn. Life is the greatest of all schools and it might be pointed out that those who have not had the advantages of the schools may, if they will, learn much from this great school. Indeed many men and women who have wrought many great achievements have learned much in life's school and we all can learn much there.

Education is made up by accretion. One fact is gathered here, and another there. One truth is learned today and another tomorrow. Education is not completed within a term of years at school. Your education is just begun. You have but started on the royal road to knowledge. The days go by there will be many things to be learned. Many golden shovels of knowledge are to be gathered.

You will observe that our rule involves more than learning something every day. It says learn something useful every day. We must learn the things that we can use ourselves. It may for example be some great fact in history. It may be some historical fact that will throw light on present day history for the past interprets the present. It may be some fact or facts in the field of biography. An eminent man tells us that when he was a boy he began to read biographies of the great men of the world. The knowledge thus gained enlarged and enriched his life. It may be the deed of some discoverer or explorer, or inventor, or statesman. It may be something in the field of science, some fact of biology, or botany, or geology, or physics. It may be something of literature, some delectable poem, or soul-stirring prose. It may be some fact of engineering of farming, or automobilism. It may be something in connection with health of the body and the cultivation of the mind. It may be the beginning of something from the greatest book of all, the book which reveals God and sets the door of heaven open before us. A book which enabes us to build character and teaches us our true mission and destiny. The world around us is full of truth. God has placed truth within our reach and we need the seeking and the diligent mind. And it is possible that we may make the mind a most valuable storehouse of truth which will broaden our lives and make our experience rich and deep.

One writer says that life is of no avail unless it implants in the mind the greatest of all lessons—the lesson of eternal self-improvement. To have the head full of dates, and theories, and facts is of very little use unless one knows it is far more important to continually gather new truth. Young men and women are too apt to allow themselves to grow soft and self-satisfied. The secret of all right living—is to learn to reach out, to build each day a stronger and higher ladder on which to climb tomorrow. Contentment means stagnation. It is the active, striving mind that develops and grows.

The second rule is: Have a worthy purpose in life. If you read history you will find that the men and the women who have attained to nobility of character and to distinction in their work have been persons of serious and worthy purpose. They lived for something worth while and they succeeded.

No really true life can be lived apart from a high purpose and aim. The person without such a purpose does not worthily achieve. It may be pointed out that the curse of multitude of people today is that they have no high aim. All over our land there are multitudes of men and women who live merely for the pleasure of the moment. They live for dress, for fashion, for the dance. Others live for money getting. They are strangers to the things that are high and lofty. In the true qualities of manhood and womanhood they are lacking. They build no worthy character and they do no worthy service for man. And it is to be regretted that this kind of life is characteristic of many young people. There are many young men and women, who, instead of seeking true culture of heart and mind and of making the most of the powers with which they have been endowed, give themselves to frivolous things. It is to be regretted that many young people spend altogether too much time with the movies, in the dance hall, and with other cheap forms of pleasure. They might probably spend more time in the reading of good literature, in a study of God's great world of nature and in the worship of God in his house. And let it be said that those who spend their youth in cheap and frivolous amusement are not likely to develop into men and women of influence, and power, and large life. They indeed are more likely to grow into pigmies than into persons of large mental and spiritual stature. Youth that is flabby and aimless will produce men and women of the same character.

The third rule is: Do a kindness to somebody every day. This rule you will observe centres not in self but in others.

As you have read the life of Jesus Christ you must have noticed how much of his life was spent in doing kind deeds. Christ lived to bless and to help. The writer of the Acts of the Apostles says that he went about doing good. Of course we are not able to do all the things that Christ did but we can do deeds that will bring blessing to others. And we can develop the spirit in which Christ did them.

Allow me to say that life is measured by this rule, and by the thought expressed in the text, "Who Went About Doing Good." That is the true test and measure of life. Life to be worth while must be filled with kind deeds and helpful service. Whatever else we may have if we miss this we fall short. We may have culture, we may have wealth, we may have social position, and political influence, but if we lack the kind spirit that delights to serve we have missed the true end of life.

And this is a time when kind deeds and helpful service are needed. Human society needs your service. Men and women need your help. Those who are strong ought to bear the burdens of the weak. You moreover owe something to the community. You are in debt to society. The state has furnished you your teachers and at a great expense has made possible your education. Your parents and friends have done much for you. Their toil and self-sacrifice have brought you to this day. And you ought to give back some return on what has been invested in you. You ought to give to the community high standards of conduct, and unselfish service. You ought to be men and women in whom is the spirit of the Christ who when he was on the earth went about doing good.

Attention might be called to the fact that the school today is setting this ideal of service before its students. It is this more than before. Educators are beginning to learn that the school has not done its full duty to the student unless it teaches him that he must give his best to human society. President Butler of Columbia University says "The School is Bound By Its Very Nature to the Service of Others." President James of Illinois University said a few years ago, "The object of all Education is to fit men for Service." The President of Northwestern University writes, "This University must perform a worthy service to the community, to the nation, and to the advancement of God on Earth." I knew one school that had for its motto "Service and Sacrifice." It would be a hopeful sign if every school and every graduate should take such a motto for their aim. And we trust that the school you represent will emphasize this more and more with the growing years.

It isn't the cut of the clothes that you wear.

Nor the stuff out of which they are made.

Though chosen with taste and fastidious care.

And it isn't the price that you paid.

It isn't the size of your pile in the bank.

Nor the number of acres you own.

It isn't a question of prestige or rank.

Nor of sinew and muscle and bone.

It isn't the servants that come at your call.

It isn't the things you possess.

Whether many, or little—or nothing at all.

It's service that measures success.

It isn't a question of name, or of length.

Of an ancestral pedigree.

Nor a question of mental vigor and strength.

Nor a question of social degree.

It isn't a question of city or town.

Nor a question of doctrine or creed.

It isn't a question of fame or renown.

Nor a question of valorous deed.

But he who makes somebody happy each day.

And he who gives heed to distress.

Will find satisfaction the richest pay.

For it's service that measures success.

EYE SPELL FORCEFUL Mussolini's Gaze Sweeps Italy

By William Philip Simms NEA Service Writer

Rome, May 21.—"Svegliati! Mussolini—the world's strangest dictator—the man who hypnotized a nation as 'Svegliati' hypnotized Trilby: Here is a close-up of him as I got it at his extraordinary office last night at the new ministry of foreign affairs.

Picture first his anti-chamber—the waiting-room to his office. Large and still rather bare—the building has been occupied as ministry of foreign affairs but a short while—the middle of the room is occupied by a center-table upon which stands a bronze statue of a Bayardesque figure on a horse, a crusader "without fear and without reproach."

Against one wall stands a plaster reproduction of the "Winged Victory" which I was later to find must be a favorite of Premier Mussolini's.

More Pictures

About the walls a number of pictures—cherubs and woodland scenes mostly—but most conspicuous of all is one of Mussolini himself so large that it covers half one wall—a heroic picture in oils of the premier as leader of the Fascist soldiers—the famous "Black Shirts"—he wearing the distinctive uniform himself and, in the shadowy background, a column of his men swinging their arms.

Nothing very impressive about all this save one thing: Mussolini's hypnotic eyes staring down at you out of the picture.

A door opened and in it was an attache beckoning to me. I stepped forward and in another second found myself in the world's strangest office.

So large is Mussolini's office I instantly felt myself dwarfed the moment I crossed the threshold. It is like a grand ball-room, the ball-room of a royal palace, with enormously high ceilings and a floor upon which any number of couples might dance with ease.

Has a Star

About the walls, tapestries mostly, but my impressions flooded in upon me too swiftly to give them more than a glance. In the corner nearest me was an enormous globe, jet black, representing the heavens, and upon it, all over, large stars of gold. Among them somewhere was Mussolini's star, in which he believes with all his heart and soul.

In the corner opposite me was another, huge globe, this one of the earth. And in the center of the room a large, marble "Winged Victory." Against it, but those, like the tapestries, got only a glance from me, for, in the corner diagonally across the room from the door I had entered, I saw as at a great distance, what appeared to me a very small flat-top desk, or table, and moving from behind it a very small man.

This was Mussolini.

Of course he is not small. Only the enormous office made him seem so. He grew larger as I made my way across what seemed like acres of floor, and presently I found myself seeing a man in riding clothes—black coat, drab riding breeches, riding boots, white standing collar with the "ears" turned back, black tie.

Again Those Eyes!

I mention these things in this order but I think the first thing I was conscious of, as I approached Mussolini, was his eyes—large, an natural-looking black eyes, piercing and, where not black, very white. Pictures I had seen had not done those eyes justice. From under heavy brows they bored like gimlets. The man's square jaw impaled; so did his high brow and the usual expression of self-confidence on his face. But his eyes almost instantly absorb his other features more: They become the center of even the huge room; that about which even the furniture of the room had been adjusted.

"Howdy," he said in English, taking a step forward and holding out his hand.

Then he went back to his chair on the other side of his desk and sat down. Putting his elbows on the table he leaned forward until his face rested between his hands, fingers flat on his temples. He closed his eyes long enough for one to count up to 20 and I had the strange feeling, in this huge room,

BARBERRY TO BE FOUGHT IN WESTERN N. D.

Eradication Campaign Will Be Extended This Year, A. C. Announces

Fargo, N. D., May 19.—Barberry eradication in North Dakota will be extended this year to the extreme western part of the state where an original survey will be conducted over the 20,000 square mile area remaining to be covered by the trained scouts to destroy the source of the black stem rust under the supervision of George C. Mayo, assistant plant pathologist of the United States department of Agriculture in North Dakota. Resurvey is now being conducted in the extreme eastern part of the state and will continue until July 1. Government and state appropriations total $20,000 and will be used in eradication during the coming fiscal year. Chemicals will be used in eradication wherever possible.

Plans for the completion of the original survey of the entire state this year have been arranged according to Mr. Mayo. Government appropriations for 13 of the Northwest wheat growing states, for the eradication of the barberry, amount to $425,000 for the fiscal year, North Dakota receiving $22,500 as its quota. With a state appropriation of $7,500 for the campaign, a total of $30,000 will be available which will enable approximately 30 trained men to complete the original survey during the summer months, the most suitable time of the year for the eradication of the bushes.

Resurvey of the towns and farms state where bushes have been found is now being conducted by Francis W. Trumbull and Harper J. Brush, field assistants.

Berlin Seeks Method To Tax Use of Foreign Words

Berlin, May 21.—Casting about for things to tax—so that Berlin's depleted exchequer may be replenished—the Argus eyes of the municipal receiver have fallen upon a host of shop signs which have sprung up along the streets since pre-war days. It is not the signs themselves he wants to assess, nor their newness, but the foreign words used in them.

Thus he thinks if any Berlin hostility prefers to be known as a "hotel", instead of priding itself on being just a plain German "Gastwirt", it should pay for the privilege of offending good German eyes by its advertisement in this way in a foreign language. The same view prevails as to firms whose doors are crowned with "coiffeur", "modes", "restaurant", or the like. Even an enterprising chap from overseas who hung out the shingle "American Dentist", would be hit. Particularly aggravating to dyed-in-the wool Germans has been the tendency to label a "Fuenf-Uhr Tee" as a "Five-o'clock Tea", especially since such a native luxury is patronized largely by foreigners.

There is scarcely a menu in Berlin which does not list "ham and eggs" boldly without any attempt to give its German equivalent, but it is not yet known whether the watch-dog of the city treasury would also try to extend his proposed tax to menus—or even to the word "menu" itself.

Dreams of Sunny Isles Entice Many Americans

Honolulu, T. H., May 21.—The United States harbors a large number of citizens who would be kings, according to letters applying for royal jobs which have found their way to Governor Wallace R. Farrington. They come as a result of an apparently widespread misconception of the South Seas.

The applicants got busy after reading a mainland newspaper article headed "Rulers Wanted for Islands in South Seas," and the erroneous information that "details might be obtained from the American Consul at Honolulu." The deluge of letters that followed found their way, in the absence of an American Consul at Honolulu, to the American governor of the American Territory of Hawaii.

The newspaper article was part of a series entitled "Life as It Really Is in the South Seas." The first article, according to information here, began with the question: "How would you like to be the ruler of a South Sea island?" Apparently the number of Americans citizens who crave to don royal paraphernalia in some far-off palm-lined, tropic island is legion. The applicants included insurance salesmen, farmers, university students, oil men, cowboys, clerks and bankers. The position of king was described as "not a serious, honest, long, and with continuous series of 'tall glases of amber rum punch' always at the elbow of the monarch. The only disadvantage to the job was given as 'the loneliness, which grows.'"

One applicant wrote: "Seeing re-

THE MONKEY WHO TURNED CAPITALIST

The Others Took to Socialism and That Is How the Fight Began.

By JOHN OAKWOOD
Just because people hear the term "high finance" so much, they get the idea that the whole subject of finance is over their heads. As a matter of fact, it is right on a level with their bread-baskets. It has more to do with every-day grub than anything else.

Finance has been described as the art of applying money to practical ends. A man is a capitalist when he accumulates enough money, either out of his own savings or by borrowing at the savings of others, to buy a farm or build a factory, and begins manufacturing food or something else he can sell to others at a profit. That's finance. It sounds simple. But I heard a story about a monkey the other day that made it even simpler.

Far be it from me to make a monkey of a capitalist—but this was a very wise monk. He lived in a zoo with a dozen various other kinds of monkeys. Their food was usually thrown in ready to eat and each took his share. But one day the keeper threw in some black walnuts, hard as rocks. All the monkeys vainly split their teeth on them and they would have starved as far as the results of their labors went. But one of their number, who was of a more intelligent species than the rest, did some thinking. Then he accumulated a couple of rocks he found in the cage and cracked the nuts between them. He started a food factory. HE WAS A CAPITALIST. He had property that increased his ability to produce food—that added to his economic power.

But trouble began. The other monkeys grabbed the kernels and ate them up as fast as he knocked them out of their shells. THEY WERE SOCIALISTS. There were other stones and they could have cracked their own walnuts, but they believed in dividing up share and share alike what the Capitalist produced. The Capitalist monkey got so mad that he did the same thing to their heads as he did to the nuts. He cracked them. The zoo keepers had to put the wise monkey in a cage by himself to prevent useless slaughter.

Human society handles a situation like this better. There are those who don't want to work—there are those who have not the capacity to organize enterprise—there are those who want more than the share they earn—there are those also who want an equal division of wealth, and now and then there is a rumpus about it—an outlaw strike or revolution or something. But as a general thing, the present social order fully protects the farmer and the manufacturer and other capitalists in their property rights and enables them to receive their just pay for what they produce. It also provides a reliable money system as a medium by which fair exchanges of different products and services can be made, and later on I will tell you a story about that.

conducting business, and am sure I could learn how to make copra. If you know anything about this, put me next and the favor will be appreciated."

Governor Farrington will answer all the applicants.

KIDDIES' SCHOOL SAVINGS GROW

Deposits Over Four Million Dollars in Few Months; Boys and Girls Own Balances of $14,000,000

Savings of pupils through school savings banking systems in the United States during the first part, ending January 31, of the present school year, totaled $4,426,000, according to reports compiled by the Savings Bank Division of the American Bankers Association. The total for the school year will be over $7,000,000 if the deposits continue at this rate, as compared with five and a half million dollars for the previous school year.

The number of pupils reported as participating in the school savings systems on January 31 was 1,534,146, as compared with 1,271,000 last year, 800,000 the previous year and 462,000 in the school year ending in 1920. In schools which have savings banking systems the proportion of enrollment which participates is tending to increase. Teachers and bankers who interest themselves in the movement make every effort to obtain a place for their systems on the honor roll published semi-annually by the American Bankers Association through its Savings Bank Division.

Savings Balances Double
The reported bank balances owned by the pupils have more than doubled already in the current school year, January 31 showing $14,000,000 as compared with $6,382,000 on June 30, 1922, and $4,434,000 on June 30, 1921. While the increased balances reflect improvement in industrial conditions, it is probable that part of the increase is statistical, due to improved accounting methods.

An important feature of school savings banking, on which no statistics can be obtained, is the extent to which the teachers are inculcating thrift in money matters and the advantage of saving systematically a part of all income. This is the basic purpose of school savings banking, the collection of deposits being deemed as only an item in the broad program of thrift education in the schools. The National Congress of Mothers and Parent-Teacher Associations is on record as giving "unqualified assistance to the establishment of thrift instruction as a regular part of the curriculum of the schools of our country."

HOW THE GAP WAS BRIDGED

German Jockeys Paid Less Than Fifty Cents a Race

Berlin, May 21.—Jockeys in Germany get about forty or fifty cents a race, with a small percentage added for riding a winning mount, under the terms of a new tariff. The schedule prescribes 10,000 marks for every flat race ridden, and 12,000 for each steeple-chase. If he wins, the jockey gets two percent of the purse. Apprentice jockeys are paid half the rate of the "regulars" and their share in any first purse won is one-fourth of one percent.

Lack of Control Sends Davenport Back To Minors

"Lefty" Davenport, pitcher from Chicago Americans, has been purchased by the New Haven Eastern League club. The wires carried that short sentence the other day which announced the passing of Davenport from the American League ranks. Possessing terrific speed and a fine curve ball, Davenport gave great promise when he was secured by the White Sox, direct from a western college.

For three years Davenport has been carried by Chicago in the hope that he would arrive, but it seems all in vain. It is questionable if any southpaw in the American League has as much stuff as Davenport, but it avails him nothing due to lack of control. Inability to get the ball over has been the one fault that has kept Davenport in the background. Perhaps regular work in the minors will enable him to overcome the fault.

EVANGELICAL PASTORS ARE GIVEN POSTS

Fourth Annual Session of Conference Is Concluded At Wishek

MANY DELEGATES THERE

The North Dakota Conference of the Evangelical church just concluded its fourth annual session in Wishek Sunday night.

The session was one of the most successful and enthusiastic ever held by this organization. Bishop S. C. Breyfogle, D. D., Ph. D., of Reading, Pa., presided at the daily sessions and preached Sunday. The Bishop is one of the leading churchmen of this country and one of the most eloquent preachers ever heard in this state.

About 30 ministers and 10 lay delegates were in attendance besides a large number of visitors from the neighboring towns and surrounding country.

The conference transacted much business of importance, among other things, that part of the Northwest Conference of the United Evangelical church which is located in this state was merged with the North Dakota Conference of the Evangelical church. This includes churches at Balfour, Anamoose, Drake, Des Laes and Lisbon.

The conference adopted strong resolutions in favor of the strict enforcement of the prohibition law and the proper observance of Sunday as a day of rest. A decided stand was taken in favor of aggressive evangelism and of teaching and preaching the great fundamental doctrines of the Bible.

The preachers were appointed as follows:

WHAT'S GOING ON IN THE WORLD

CHIEF EVENTS BRIEFLY TOLD

Bandits — Ruhr — Russia — Sugar

BY CHARLES P. STEWART.

Nobody but Japan is getting any fun out of the kidnapping by Chinese brigands of about two dozen foreigners who were traveling north on the ultra-tony Shanghai-Pekin express train and are still held in ransom in the wilds of Shantung.

Japan got possession of Shantung in the confusion of the World War. The war over, the powers, especially the United States, said the province ought to be returned to the Chinese.

Japan replied the Chinese government wouldn't get it even if she did this; that a lot of outlaws would grab it instead.

The powers said she ought to do it anyway and Japan complied.

Now the bandits have given them an example of what they've got to expect.

Bandits' Terms Met.

The brigands' captives include 10 or 12 Americans.

Among them was Miss Lucy Aldrich, John D. Rockefeller, Jr.'s sister-in-law, but she got away.

The Pekin government is willing to pay any ransom and agree to any terms the bandits name, so presumably the prisoners will be freed soon; but it's been proved Chinese travel is far from safe.

Most of the bigger countries, including this one, have a few troops handy, but a land the size of China, as big as the United States and three or four times as populous, isn't easy to police.

Neither is it likely soldiers could get their prisoners away from the bandits alive.

CROSS WITH FRANCE.

England is annoyed with France for rejecting Germany's Ruhr proposition without consulting her.

She says the offer was to her as well as to France and she was entitled to a voice. At the same time, she'd told Germany the proposal wasn't satisfactory anyway, but advises her to try again.

France has found Dr. Gustav Krupp von Bohlen, head of the Krupp industries, guilty of anti-French activity in the Ruhr, fined him 100 million marks, which is a fortune for him, and sent him to prison for 10 years, which is more serious.

FIGHTING IN BRAZIL.

South American cables tell of victories against the government by rebels in southern Brazil. The country is a confederation, but pretty loose and state rebellions are quite common. The matter is extra serious now because North American packing companies' properties worth 10 millions are endangered.

SOVIET OFFICIAL SLAIN.

M. Vorovsky, Russian representative in Italy, who was in Lausanne to look after his country's interests at the conference over Turkey's future, has been assassinated by Maurice Contadi, a former officer of the czar.

Contadi shot him as they sat at dinner in a Lausanne hotel.

The Russians, very angry, say the Swiss authorities didn't try hard enough to protect Vorovsky.

THREE-MILE LIMIT.

The United States, Russia wants to extend her limit of authority over the ocean from three to twelve miles beyond her shores.

It isn't liquid smuggling she's trying to prevent but fishing rights she wants to protect.

England insists on the three-mile limit and has sent a warship to defend her fishing craft from Russian interference. She has sent an ultimatum to Moscow, too, threatening, not war but a break in commercial relations.

PRICE OF SUGAR.

The federal court of appeals in New York has refused the injunction asked by the government against speculation in raw sugar futures.

This was in connection with the suit by which the government hoped to force sugar prices down.

Its lawyer said every 1 cent a pound rise costs the people seven millions a year.

There will be an appeal to the United States Supreme Court.

DOCTORS KNOW BEST.

Another New York federal judge has knocked out the part of the Volstead law which prevented doctors from prescribing more than a pint of intoxicants every ten days for any patient.

The court's opinion is that the doctors know best.

This decision will be appealed, too.

BUSINESS MEN'S VIEWS.

The United States Chamber of Commerce, a national organization of business men, has declared for American participation in a world court.

An international economic conference.

The open shop.

Support of the United States Coal Commission.

Government aid to disabled World War veterans.

The chamber, however, did not mention the soldiers' bonus. It expressed its opposition to government participation in commerce.

GIVES ADDRESS TO 70 SENIORS AT AUDITORIUM

Dr. S. F. Halfyard Delivers Baccalaureate Sermon to High School Students

MUSICAL PROGRAM ALSO

The baccalaureate sermon to the seventy high school students in the 1923 graduating class was preached yesterday afternoon at the city Auditorium by Dr. S. F. Halfyard before a good size audience.

The exercises were opened with the singing of "America" by the audience. Dr. J. E. Ryerson made the invocation, and pronounced the benediction. A piano solo, "Adoration" by Burrows was given by Mrs. John L. Hughes. Mrs. Arthur Bauer sang "Gloria" A. Buzzi Pecora accompanied on the piano by Mrs. Hughes. The violin obligato was played by Don McDonald.

Dr. Halfyard took as his text the words, "Who Went About Doing Good," and developed his subject by speaking on the three rules of life.

The first rule is to learn something every day, the speaker said. Those who have been graduated from the schools are sometimes spoken of as having completed their education. They have received their diplomas and their education is finished. But the fact of the matter is that one's education is never completed. Nor should it be thought of as being finished. Education is life, and is therefore as continuous and as vast as life. Those who have finished the course at school should continue to study and to learn. Life is the greatest of all schools and it might be pointed out that those who have not had the advantages of the schools may, if they will, learn much from this great school. Indeed many men and women who have wrought many great achievements have learned much in life's school and we all can learn much there.

Education is made up by accretion. One fact is gathered here, and another there. One truth is learned today, and another tomorrow. Education is not completed within a term of years at school. Your education is just begun. You have but started on the royal road to knowledge. As the days go by there will be many things to be learned. Many golden sheaves of knowledge are to be gathered.

You will observe that our rule involves more than learning something every day. It says learn something useful every day. We must learn the things that we can ourselves use. It may for example be some historic fact that will throw light on present day history. It may be some fact or facts in the field of biography. An eminent man tells us that when he was a boy he began to read biographies of the great men of the world. The knowledge thus gained enlarged and enriched his life. It may be the deed of some discoverer or explorer, or inventor, or statesman. It may be something in the fields of science, some fact of biology, or botany, or geology, or physics. It may be something of literature, some delightful poem, or soul-stirring prose. It may be some fact of engineering, of farming, or of automobilism. It may be something in connection with health of the body and the cultivation of the mind. It may be the beginning of something from the greatest book of all. A book which is more than literature. A book which reveals God and sets the door of heaven open before us. A book which enables us to build character and teaches us our true mission and destiny. The world around us is full of truth. God has placed truth within our reach and we need the seeking and the diligent mind. And it is possible that it may make the mind and most valuable storehouse. We may gather truth which will broaden our lives and make our experience rich and deep.

One writer says that life is of no avail unless it implants in the mind the greatest of all lessons—the lesson of eternal self-improvement. To have the head full of dates, and theories, and facts is of very little use unless one knows it is far more essential to constantly gather new truth. Young men and women are too apt to allow themselves to grow soft and self-satisfied. The secret of all right living is to learn to reach out and build each day stronger and higher ladder on which to climb tomorrow. Contentment means stagnation. It is the active, striving mind that develops and grows.

The second rule is: Have a worthy purpose in life. If you read history you will find that the men and the women who have attained to nobility of character and to distinction in their work have been persons of serious and worthy purpose. They lived for something worth while and they succeeded.

No really true life can be lived apart from a high purpose and aim. The person without such a purpose does not worthily achieve. It may be pointed out that the curse of multitude of people today is that they have no high aim. All over our land there are multitudes of men and women who live merely for the pleasures of the moment. They live for dress, for fashion, for the dance. Others live for money getting. They are strangers to the things that are high and lofty. In the true qualities of manhood and womanhood they are lacking. They build no worthy character and they do no worthy service for man. And it is to be regretted that this kind of life is characteristic of many young people. There are many young men and women, who, instead of seeking true culture of heart and mind and of making the most of the powers with which they have been endowed, give themselves to frivolous things. It is to be regretted that many young people spend altogether too much time with the movies, in the dance hall, and with other cheap forms of pleasure. They might probably spend more time in the reading of good literature, in a study of God's great world of nature and in the worship of God in his house. And let it be said that those who spend their youth in cheap and frivolous amusement are not likely to develop into men and women of influence, and power, and large life. They indeed are more likely to grow into pignies than into persons of large mental and spiritual stature. Youth that is flabby and aimless will produce men and women of the same character.

The third rule is: Do a kindness to somebody every day. This rule you will observe centres not in self but in others.

As you have read the life of Jesus Christ you must have noticed how much of his life was spent in doing kind deeds. Christ lived to bless and to help. The writer of the Acts of the Apostles says that he went about doing good. Of course we are not able to do all the things that Christ did but we can do deeds that will bring blessing to others. And we can do them in the spirit in which Christ did them.

Allow me to say that life is measured by this rule, and by the thought expressed in the text, "Who Went About Doing Good." That is the true test and measure of life. Life to be worth while must be filled with kind deeds and helpful service. Whatever else we may have if we miss this we fall short. We may have culture, we may have wealth, we may have social position, a political influence, but if we lack the kind spirit that delights to serve we have missed the true end of life.

And this is a time when kind deeds and helpful service are needed. Human society needs your service. Men and women need your help. Those who are strong ought to bear the burdens of the weak. You moreover owe something to the community. You are in debt to society. The state has furnished you your teachers and at a great expense has made possible your education. Your parents and friends have done much for you. Their toil and self-sacrifice have brought you to this day. And you ought to give back some return on what has been invested in you. You ought to give to the community high standards of conduct, and unselfish service. You ought to be men and women in whom is the spirit of the Christ who when he was on the earth went about doing good.

Attention might be called to the fact that the school today is setting this ideal as service before its students. It is this more than before. Educators are beginning to learn that the school has not done its full duty to the student unless it teaches him that he must give his best to human society. President Butler of Columbia University says "The School is Bound By Its very Nature to the Service of Others." President James of Illinois University said a few years ago, "The object of all education is to fit men for service." The President of Northwestern University writes, "This University must perform a worthy service to the community, to the nation, and to the advancement of God on Earth." I know of no school that had for its motto "Service and Sacrifice." It would be a hopeful sign if every school and every graduate should take such a motto for their aim. And we trust that the school you represent will emphasize this more and more with the growing years.

It isn't the cut of the clothes that you wear.

Nor the stuff out of which they are made.

Though chosen with taste and fastidious care.

And it isn't the price that you pay.

It isn't the size of your pile in the bank.

Nor the number of acres you own.

It isn't a question of prestige or rank.

Nor of sinew and muscle and bone.

It isn't the servants that come at your call.

It isn't the things you possess.

Whether many, or little—or nothing at all.

It's service that measures success.

It isn't a question of name, or of length.

Of an ancestral pedigree.

Nor a question of mental vigor and strength.

Nor a question of social degree.

It isn't a question of city or town.

Nor a question of doctrine or creed.

It isn't a question of fame or renown.

Nor a question of valorous deed.

But he who makes somebody happy each day.

And he who gives heed to distress.

Will find satisfaction the richest pay.

For it's service that measures success.

EYE SPELL FORCEFUL Mussolini's Gaze Sweeps Italy

By William Philip Simms NEA Service Writer

Rome, May 21.—"Svengali" Mussolini—the world's strangest dictator—the man who hypnotized a nation as "Svengali" hypnotized Trilby: Here is a close-up of him as I got it at his extraordinary office last night at the new ministry of foreign affairs.

Picture first his anti-chamber—the waiting-room to his office. Large and still rather bare—the building has been occupied as ministry of foreign affairs but a short while—the middle of the room is occupied by a center-table upon which stands a bronze statue of a Bayardesque figure on a horse, a crusader "without fear and without reproach."

Against one wall stands a plaster reproduction of the "Winged Victory" which I was later to find must be a favorite of Premier Mussolini's.

More Pictures

About the walls a number of pictures—cherubs and woodland scenes, mostly—but most conspicuous of all is one of Mussolini himself so large that it covers half one wall—a heroic picture in oils of the premier as leader of the Fascist soldiers—the famous "Black Shirts"—he wearing the distinctive uniform himself and in the shadowy background, a column of his men swinging past.

Nothing very impressive about all this save one thing: Mussolini's hypnotic eyes staring down at you out of the picture.

A door opened and in it was an attaché beekoning to me. I stepped forward and in another second found myself in the world's strangest office.

So large is Mussolini's office I instantly felt myself dwarfed the moment I crossed the threshold. It is like a grand ball-room, the ball-room of a royal palace, with enormously high ceilings and a floor upon which any number of couples might dance with ease.

Has a Star

About the walls tapestries mostly, but my impressions flooded in upon me too swiftly to give them more than a glance. In the corner nearest me was an enormous globe, jet black, representing the heavens, and upon it, all over, large stars of gold. Among them somewhere was Mussolini's star, in which he believes with all his heart and soul.

In the corner opposite me was another huge globe, this one of the earth. And in the center of the room a large, marble "Winged Victory." Against! But these, like the tapestries, got only a glance from me for, in the corner diagonally across the room from the door I had entered, I saw as at a great distance, what appeared to me a very small flat-top desk or table, and moving from behind it a very small man.

This was Mussolini.

Of course he is not small. Only the enormous office made him seem so. He grew larger as I made my way across what seemed like acres of floor, and presently I found myself nearing a man in his long, black coat, dark riding breeches, riding boots, white standing collar with the "ears" turned back, black tie.

Again Those Eyes!

I mention these things in this order but I think the first thing I was conscious of, as I approached Mussolini, was his eyes—large, unusual-looking black eyes, piercing and, where not black, very white. Pictures had seen had not done those eyes justice. From under heavy brows they bored like gimlets; so did his high brow and the unusual expression of self-confidence on his face. But his eyes almost instantly absorbed the features most of them become the center of even the huge room; that about which even the furniture of the room had been adjusted.

"Howdydo," he said in English, taking a step forward and holding out his hand.

Then he went back to his chair on the other side of his desk and sat down. Putting his elbows on the table he leaned forward until his fingers rested between his two hands, fingers flat on his temples. He closed his eyes long enough for one to count up to 20 and I had the strange feeling, in this huge room, surrounded by charts of the heavens and the earth, that Italy's prime minister was consulting strange gods.

BENITO MUSSOLINI

Presently he opened his eyes and turned them full blast on me. "Eh bien!" he said—French like pistol shots.

The interview was on.

THE STATE'S OLDEST NEWSPAPER
(Established 1873)

POPPIES FOR REMEMBRANCE

This week under the auspices of the American Legion auxiliary, red poppies will be sold and the proceeds will be used to assist disabled soldiers—a most worthy project.

Let this year's sale surpass past ones so that the funds will be greater for this purpose. The women who will conduct the sale should have the earnest cooperation of everyone. It surely is an enterprise in which all should gladly join.

What a deep significance the red poppy has. The wearing of the emblem denotes remembrance for the fallen soldier and also realization of obligations to the veteran who still bears the pain of strife.

Could there be anything finer; anything more fitting during the few days before Decoration Day than the purchase of these crimson flowers, emblematic of those which dot foreign fields where soldiers shed their blood and died in a worthy cause.

There are many obligations to be discharged to the disabled veterans of the world war as well as the other wars, and you can make their lot easier by buying poppies—your small purchase will help someone to overcome a handicap incurred in a defense of this nation's honor and in protection of your home.

By all means buy poppies!

A WISE DECISION

Governor Nestos has pointed out wisely that the appropriation for immigration purposes is so small that the state must have the earnest cooperation of the various organizations engaged in promoting the various activities of North Dakota. Practically every Commercial Club, Association of Commerce or civic body of every nature devotes a portion of its program to attracting settlers to the state. If the effort can be coordinated as far as possible, the net results will be greater than if each organization proceeds along its own selfish lines.

If they can determine upon a man who can coordinate this work with what assistance the state office can give, some concrete results should follow. It takes special ability to promote immigration. Railroads spend large sums each year and secure the best talent. Surely this state can get a man who has made a name for himself in this line of work.

Governor Nestos is acting from the best of motives in ascertaining from local associations throughout the state who would be the best man to aid in this class of promotion work. It would be much easier for him to pass out the plum to a politician for services rendered—but would the state gain anything in the way of increased development of its resources by such action?

CONGRATULATIONS!

Bismarck High School is to be congratulated on the success of her publications in the newspaper contest held at the University of North Dakota in connection with the high school conference there. "Prairie Breezes," the high school annual, won first prize and "Pep," the high school newspaper was awarded third place. The award is especially impressive in view of the fact that "Prairie Breezes" is the newest venture of the high school into the publication field.

Many factors entered into the award of the judges, the publications being judged as to the quality of content, arrangement, selection of material and typography.

The Tribune is especially pleased over the victories because the publications are from its press, and a high quality of printing was a factor before the judges, but would not want by this mere statement of fact to in any way detract from the splendid victory of the boys and girls in charge of the publications. It was their untiring effort and the cooperation of other high school students, the faculty and the merchants and citizens of the city which made it possible for Bismarck High School to win such a signal honor.

CLEVER

A clever new trick for airplanes is invented by an Englishman. It's a revolving platform, which moves rapidly back as the airplane starts ahead, treadmill fashion, so the plane is going fast when it manages to get off the platform. This does away with the necessity of gliding over a long field before rising. Like the ball moving rapidly but staying on the umbrella twirled in the opposite direction by the Jap vaudeville actor.

It's quite possible that houses will have roofs like this later, in the day of flying flippers.

NOISE

A device that eliminates undesirable noises has been invented by Professor G. W. Stewart of the University of Iowa. Our ears work similarly, suppressing countless millions of sounds, the very high and the very low. We are tuned to receive only certain vibrations—above them or below, silence. Otherwise we would be hearing such frightful bedlam as the sound of the planets and stars frictioning through the ether, though it might be harmony—what the ancients called "the music of the spheres."

ATHLETES

The best physical specimens in America—250 of them—will represent us in the Olympic games to be held next year in Paris. This is 100 fewer than we had at Antwerp in 1920. Suggestion to the League of Nations or any other profound organization: Don't hold your meeting in Paris next year if you want people to learn about it.

COTTON

Big man in the cotton industry, Frederick K. Rupprecht, analyzes the cotton situation and fears that "all the American cotton in the world will be consumed by September 1. Since the new crop is not available in the south until about October 15 and in foreign countries until about November 15, millers may have to be idle for some weeks." The outlook is for prosperity in southern states.

EDITORIAL REVIEW

Comments reproduced in this column may or may not express the opinion of The Tribune. They are presented here in order that our readers may have both sides of important issues which are being discussed in the press of the day.

PRET'S FOR SENATOR

Governor Preus might have had the succession to his friend Senator Nelson by the simple route of appointment. He could have resigned his office as governor; Lieutenant-Governor Collins would have become governor; and as governor he would have appointed Mr. Preus to the senate vacancy.

He chooses not to accept the honor in this way. He has called a special election instead. Doubtless he will become a candidate in that election. By all means he should.

Beyond doubt, this is the better way, and the governor's choice does him great credit. Refusing a certainty because he does not believe that it would be in good taste to embrace it, he takes his chances with the field in an election.

This despite the known fact that he was the choice of the late Senator Nelson as his successor, and the very obvious fact that there was a widespread demand that he accept the appointment in the way that had been outlined.

This sound and wise choice cannot fail to increase the conviction that he is fit to be senator, fit to step into the vacancy created by the passing of his close friend and political mentor through many years.

Governor Preus is also sound and wise in calling for a primary election to precede the special election rather than to summon conventions. The legislature just adjourned went emphatically on record against the convention, repudiating the pre-primary convention law with only a few negative votes. This beyond doubt reflects the will of the state, and that will the governor is heeding when he calls for a primary election.

There will be other candidates, naturally; candidates for the primaries and candidates at the election. But the fitness of having Governor Preus succeed Senator Nelson is so much more than a mere possibility that it seems hardly worth doubt that whoever may enter the field, a majority will select Governor Preus as the man to go to Washington and take up the work that his friend has just laid down.—Duluth Herald.

WHY NOT BROADAXE?

John Andrews picked the wrong name for his newspaper. He ought to have called it the Snagdragon, for it is snapping the heads off all the former League leaders and idols, Frazier, Townley, Lemke, Wood, et al. The things he says about the late Nonpartisan captains in his last issue sounds like the Courier-News casting into outer darkness those who preceded these worthies into the League Hades.—Beach Advance.

ADVENTURE OF THE TWINS

By Olive Barton Roberts

"Where to, next?" asked Nancy, when she and Nick had helped the little Ragdies to spring clean Mister Owl's apartment in Maple Tree Flats. "Why, let's see! I think we'd better be cleaning Scramble Squirrel's summer apartment next," said Mister Tatters.

So all the Ragdies gathered up their buckets and scrubbing brushes and mops and brooms and things and slid down the elevator shaft in the maple tree until they came to Mister Squirrel's front door. Nancy went in first. Having their magical shoes the Twins could wish themselves any size at all and now they were no larger than the Ragdies.

"My, oh my! It's as dusty as a miller," cried Nancy, looking around. "Nick, you beat the carpets and I'll clean the pantry and Mister Tatters, you and the rest of the Ragdies can scrub the walls and floors."

Very soon the apartment of Mister Squirrel was as busy as a beehive. Dirt flew like magic and things grew as bright as new pennies.

"Come here and help me, Nick," called Nancy and she and Nick called Jack Frost chased Mister Squirrel off to Dreamland last fall he left some nuts behind. And they can't be good now. Let's throw them out."

So the Twins emptied the nut-bin, and Rag Tag, the Raggy, brought a big basket and carried them all away to bark knows where.

"Now, that's done!" declared Nancy briskly.

"What's done?" asked a sleepy voice. And there stood Scramble Squirrel himself!

"Why, your house is as clean as a band box," announced Nancy proudly. "We just got done throwing out the last of your old nuts and acorns and things so you'll have room for new ones."

"What?" shrieked Scramble, suddenly wide awake, rushing over and looking into his empty nut-bin. "My precious nuts! There won't be new ones for eight months and those weren't bad at all! I've used them all winter off and on."

"Rag Tag!" called busy Nancy. "Get your basket and bring all those nuts back as fast as you can." And only then did Scramble remember his manners and thank them.

LESLIE PRESCOTT TO HER MOTHER, MRS. JOSEPH GRAVES HAMILTON

DEAREST, DEAREST MOTHER:

I wish you and dad would just pack up your things and come over and see our new apartment. It is perfectly wonderful and really, mother, I'm a very good cook. With some help from the Woman's Exchange and the rotisserie I get along famously.

Jack told me the other night that he never was so happy in his life and I wish you could see with what pride he showed his chief from the advertising company all over it.

"My wife did all this by herself and I never knew one word about it until she surprised me," he said. "Isn't she wonderful?"

When they sat down to dinner Mr. James—that is Jack's chief's name—said that he believed he would get married himself if he could have as nice food as he was eating.

Of course I didn't tell him that the chicken was from the rotisserie, the angel food cake from the Woman's Exchange and the ice cream from the confectioner's. I managed to make the salad and cook the potatoes and peas.

It was a nice dinner, mother, and the table with all our wedding silver looked perfectly scrumptious. You would be proud of your child although I have a bone to pick with you that you did not teach me a little more about cooking. You know I don't dare to roast a leg of lamb or bake a chicken or do any of those things yet. I am so afraid they will be spoiled. And I don't want to get in bad with Jack.

Why do they call men the consistent sex, Little Marquise? Did you find out?

Jack has completely forgotten that he found so much fault with me over the house. You would think to hear him talk to his friends, that the whole plan and its carrying out had suited him from the first.

Why, oh why did he not accept it as gracefully and sweetly as he does now instead of making me thoroughly unhappy over the first thing I ever did for him?

I have tried to forgive him and I guess I have, but oh little secret confidant, I cannot forget that he made me more miserable than I had ever been before in my life.

I could not tell this in my letter to mother, but I can tell it to you.

The most expensive thing about a house is company.

When I think, mother dear, that this never could have been if you hadn't been so generous to me, I shall never cease to be grateful to you.

Jack got a bonus yesterday on a new contract and he says we can have lots of new things.

He told me the evening after the chief was here that the next morning he had called him into his office and told him that with such a splendid, capable and charming wife as I, he could not help but get along.

There, I think I have told you enough about myself. I am just going to say "I love you" and save the rest for the next time. Why doesn't Alice write? LESLIE.

FLOWING GOLD

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Calvin Gray occupies the most expensive suite in the most exclusive hotel in Dallas. He makes friends with Gus Briskow, who has struck oil in Ranger, and meets Ma Briskow, Allegheny, the daughter, and Ozark, the son. Bob Parker, daughter of Tom Parker, comes home from college and goes into the land business. She buys and sells for Colonel Henry Nelson, son of Bill Nelson, banker. Gus Briskow tells Gray of a trick that Henry Nelson works on him to beat him out of the sale of some land. Gray offers to take a hand against Nelson, who is his enemy.

"You know them Nelsons?" "I know—Henry."

"He's hard-boiled 'n his old man. They got a lot of money behind 'em. 'Tis much money to act like he done with me. I sure hate to see him git that Evans lease for next to nothing, after the way he done. I'd call it cheating! but—well, I can't handle it."

The man at the window wheeled suddenly and his face was white, his brows were drawn down. "By God!" he cried, tensely. "He won't get it. Where's that option?"

"I got it right here," Briskow handed over a paper. "An' I got the hull title abstract too. Had it all ready for Nelson."

When he had swiftly scanned the document, Gray said: "This deal means little to you, Briskow, but it means much to me, and I'll make it worth something to both of us. At first I thought the time was too short, but I work best when I work fast. You've had your chance and failed. Now then, step aside and let a man run who knows how."

Mr. Roswell, president of the bank where Gray had first made himself known, was a shrewd, forceful man, who had attained a position in business and arrived at a time of life when he could well afford to indulge his likes and dislikes.

Roswell had liked Gray upon their first meeting, and that liking had deepened. Owing to that fact, he had neglected to secure a report upon him, assuring himself that there was always time for such formalities. He was cordial toward him when Gray strode into his office bringing Gus Briskow with him.

The banker listened with interest to what he was told, then he studied the map that Briskow spread upon his desk showing the location of his own and other nearby wells.

"That looks like a sure thing," Roswell said, finally. "As sure as anything in oil can be. What is on your mind?"

"I'd like to get the opinion of the bank's oil expert," Gray told him. "This was a matter easily disposed of, the expert was summoned and he rendered a prompt opinion. He knew the property; he considered it a cheap lease at a thousand dollars an acre. It was proven stuff and within thirty days it would probably triple in value. When he had gone, the banker smiled.

"Well, Gray," said he, "I knew you'd land something good. You're a hustler. You'll make a fortune out of that land."

Gray handed him Gus Briskow's option, and the assignment thereof, the ink upon which was scarcely dry. "That's the joker," he expires tomorrow night. The well will go to the Nelsons. They're double-crossed Mr. Briskow."

"Then don't let them get away with it. Take it yourself."

"It is now three o'clock and this is the golfing season in New York," Gray told him. "I couldn't reach my associates and get any action before Monday."

"No funds of your own available?" "Not enough, at such short notice."

"That lease is worth one hundred and sixty thousand dollars, isn't it?" The banker nodded. "I'm going to sell it before six o'clock for eighty thousand. I know people here who will take it, but I've come here to you. Get together a little syndicate right here in the bank and buy it. I'll agree to take it off your hands within thirty days at one hundred and sixty thousand dollars."

"Is your guaranty any good?" "That is for you to determine. Assume that it is not, and I'll better my first offer. I'll undertake to sell off the land in twenties right here in Dallas, double your money, and divide the profits thereafter with you. It is a safe speculation and a quick one. You know I can put it through."

Mr. Roswell considered briefly before replying. "There's no use denying that we've made money on deals like this—everybody has. So it's nothing new. There's a big play on Ranger stuff and we couldn't lose. But I know nothing about you except the little you've told me. When I go into a deal I put my trust more in the man than the proposition."

"And I trust my own judgment of human character more than that of strangers," Gray said, quickly. "So do you. Thirty days is a long time with me, and the oil business is just my speed. Permit me to remind you that time is flying and that I have given myself only three hours in which to turn this property."

"I like your energy," the banker confessed, "and I'm inclined to bet some of my own money on you. Now—he pushed a button on his desk—"let's see if there are any others here who feel as I do."

It was early evening when Gus Briskow returned to his wife's and his daughter's rooms at the Ajax. He slipped in quietly and sank into a chair.

"Mercy me! I thought you was run over!" Ma Briskow exclaimed. "I feel like I want, the nester declared, with a grin. 'Say! Mister Gray sold the Evans lease an'—we got more money than ever.'"

"Then maybe you can afford a new suit," Allie told him. "You look like sin."

Her father nodded, but his mind was full of the incidents of that afternoon and he began at once to recount them. He told the story badly, but in a language that the women understood. He had not gone far, however, when the girl interrupted him to exclaim: "Wait! Wait! Why? Put you mean to say Mister Gray ain't got no money?"

"He had less 'n a hundred dollars. An' him livin' here like a king with everybody howlin' an' scarpin'!"

Ignoring the effect upon Allie of this intelligence, he continued his recital. "All I done was set around while him an' them bank people talked it over," he said, finally. "Then they got their lawyer in an' he examined the title papers. Seemed like he'd never git through, but he did, an' they signed some things and we come out, ah! Mister Gray told me I'd made forty-eight thousand dollars."

"Goodness me!" Ma Briskow's eyes widened. "Why, that Evans place ain't worth the taxes."

"It's more'n likely worth a million. But think! Him tellin' me I'd made forty-eight thousand dollars! It give me a jolt, an' I says I didn't make it. I told him I'd fell down an' turned the hull thing over to him. It's you that's made forty-eight thousand," I says."

"What?" Allie inquired, sharply. Then when her father had repeated himself, she asked with even greater intensity: "What'd he say to that? He didn't take it, did he?"

"He laughed kind of queer, an' says all I got to do to give him a good night's rest is to wire Henry Nelson the deal's closed. An' him with less 'n a hundred dollars!"

Allie spoke again in great relief. "Lord! You give me a turn." Her expression altered, her lips parted in a slow smile. "So! he's pore, eh? Pore as we was. Well, I declare!" She rose and turned her back upon her father.

"No, he ain't pore," Briskow said, irritably. "Not now he ain't. I says it's his deal an' his money, an' we got plenty. An' I stuck to it."

Allie wheeled suddenly at this announcement. She uttered a cry of protest; then, "What are you talkin' about?" she roughly demanded.

"We had some argumint an' I got kinda riled. Finally he says if I feel that way we'll go partners. He wouldn't take it to nuthin' else, an'—that's how it stands. He made twenty-four thousand an' I—"

"You—You fool!" Gus Briskow looked up with a start to find his daughter standing over him, her face ablaze, her deep bosom heaving. He stared at her in frank amazement, doubting his senses. Never had Allegheny used toward him a word, a tone like this, never had he seen her look as she did at this moment.

"Allie—Allie!" the mother gasped. She, too, was aghast. "You—you're talkin' to your pa?"

"You give him twenty-four thousand dollars? Give it to him? What'd you do for? What'd you—"

A harsh exclamation burst from the girl—to the astonished parents it sounded like an oath, but it could not have been—then she swung herself heavily about and rushed blindly into the next room, slamming the stout metal door behind her with a crash that threatened to unhinge it.

"Well, I be—darned!" Gus Briskow turned a slack, empty face upon the partner of his joys. "I-I never s'posed that girl would turn out—greedy."

CHAPTER IX

An Electric Wiggle Stick

Of all the oil excitements, that which occurred in North Texas, was perhaps the most remarkable; at any rate, the world has never witnessed such scenes as were enacted there.

The strike at Ranger lit the fuse, the explosion came with the first gush of inflammable liquid from the Fowler farm at Burkburnett.

"Burrk" was a sleepy little town, dozing amid parched wheat fields. The paint was off it; nothing much more exciting than a crop failure ever happened there. The main line of conversation was the weather and as Mark Twain said, everybody talked about it, but nothing was done. Within sixty days this soporific village became a roaring bedlam; every town lot was leased, derricks rose out of chicken runs, boilers panted in front yards, mobs of strangers surged through the streets and the air grew shrill with their bickerings.

Naturally a little country town like this could not hold the newcomers, therefore Wichita Falls became their headquarters. Here there were at least a few hotels and some sort of office quarters—sheds beneath which the shearing could take place—and there the herd assembled.

The popularity of the photoplay at the Capitol, and the enthusiasm shown for it by the reviewers of the New York newspapers, was such that B. S. Moss then booked it for a run at his Cameo theatre. URGE USE OF SAME GEARSHIFT

(Automotive Industries)

At least three arrangements of three-speed gearshifts are in general use in this country today and each is made in large quantities. Each type involves different motions on the part of the operator in changing gears.

The need for a single arrangement was appreciated years ago when the Society of Automotive Engineers recommended a standard for speed gear-shift which involved the following motions: Reverse, forward left; low, rear left; intermediate, forward right, and high, rear right.

Arguments for other arrangements are often made and it may be that they are preferable to this particular standard. If so, the standard should be changed. In any case, the present variation in practice results in much confusion and annoyance, if not in occasional accidents, in the operation of various cars by the same individual.

DIRECTOR OF CONTROL BODY COMES TO N. D.

Rush, Field Director of the American Society for the Control of Cancer, with headquarters here, has accepted an invitation to address the State Medical Society at its annual meeting to be held at Grand Forks, North Dakota, May 30 to 31. Dr. Rush will speak on the subject of cancer and the necessity for close cooperation of the medical profession in the public health movement.

While in Grand Forks he will confer with Dr. V. J. LaRose of Bismarck, who is serving as the State Chairman of the North Dakota Cancer Committee. He will also attempt to visit Dr. H. E. French, Secretary of the State Board of Health, who has shown much interest in the campaign.

The American Society includes among its members many of the foremost physicians, surgeons and scientists in the country and Dr. Rush will have an interesting story to tell of their efforts in spreading information concerning the initial symptoms of cancer, that those afflicted with the disease may establish the fact early enough to receive treatment and be cured. It is the opinion of medical men generally that by this method only can the mounting cancer death rate be lowered.

Sleeveless Jackets on Suits For Summer

Suits for summer wear are being shown with sleeveless jackets. The dress underneath is usually a simple, one-piece frock with long bell sleeves to match the skirt and a bodice of material to match the lining of the jacket. The suit skirt may be either plain or accordion pleated.

Exquisite greens—almond green, sea green, Lavin green, jade green—are the most popular shades of the moment, with sand and gray shades coming next for those whose taste is more conservative.

URGE USE OF SAME GEARSHIFT

(Automotive Industries)

At least three arrangements of three-speed gearshifts are in general use in this country today, one made in large quantities. Each type involves different motions on the part of the operator in changing gears.

The need for a single arrangement was appreciated years ago when the Society of Automotive Engineers recommended a standard three-speed gearshift which involved the following motions: Reverse, forward left; low, rear left; intermediate, forward right, and high, rear right.

Arguments for other arrangements are often made and it may be that they are preferable to this particular standard. If so, the standard should be changed. In any case, the present confusion in practice results in much frustration and annoyance, if not in occasional accidents, in the operation of various cars by the same individual.

In these days when thousands of individuals own and operate two or more cars, standard practice in respect to controls is of greater importance than ever. It is not uncommon to hear of sales lost because of difference in controls.

RIBBON EMBROIDERY.

A great deal of the narrow ribbon embroidery is being used on summer hats this year. Narrow two-toned ribbons are used, some of them being applied to the straw in starting geometrical designs.

APRICOT TAFFETA.

A hat of apricot taffeta has an all-over applique of black velvet cut out in a cherry and vine design.

TAPESTRY BAGS.

Tapestry is the only cloth in vogue for bags in Paris today. The bags generally match the costume in tone or background, however.

SLEEVELESS SWEATERS.

Manish sweaters, with or without sleeves, and often having a fancy front, are much worn for golf. They are worn with pleated skirts.

FELT POPULAR.

Felt, which was one of the most sought after materials for spring hats, is promising to continue its popularity through the summer and fall. White is being most used and after this the sand tones.

Flowers, lace and the sheerest of fabrics combine in the daintiest of interpretations for summer frocks.

THE STATE'S OLDEST NEWSPAPER
(Established 1873)

POPPIES FOR REMEMBRANCE

This week under the auspices of the American Legion auxiliary, red poppies will be sold and the proceeds will be used to assist disabled soldiers—a most worthy project.

Let this year's sale surpass past ones so that the funds will be greater for this purpose. The women who will conduct the sale should have the earnest cooperation of everyone. It surely is an enterprise in which all should gladly join.

What a deep significance the red poppy has. The wearing of the emblem denotes remembrance for the fallen soldier and also realization of obligations to the veteran who still bears the pain of strife.

Could there be anything finer; anything more fitting during the few days before Decoration Day than the purchase of these crimson flowers, emblematic of those which dot foreign fields where soldiers shed their blood and died in a worthy cause.

There are many obligations to be discharged to the disabled veterans of the world war as well as the other wars, and you can make their lot easier by buying poppies—your small purchase will help someone to overcome a handicap incurred in a defense of this nation's honor and in protection of your home.

By all means buy poppies!

A WISE DECISION

Governor Nestos has pointed out wisely that the appropriation for immigration purposes is so small that the state must have the earnest cooperation of the various organizations engaged in promoting the various activities of North Dakota. Practically every Commercial Club, Association of Commerce or civic body of every nature devotes a portion of its program to attracting settlers to the state. If the effort can be coordinated as far as possible, the net results will be greater than if each organization proceeds along its own selfish lines.

If they can determine upon a man who can coordinate this work with what assistance the state office can give, some concrete results should follow. It takes special ability to promote immigration. Railroads spend large sums each year and secure the best talent. Surely this state can get a man who has made a name for himself in this line of work.

Governor Nestos is acting from the best of motives in ascertaining from local associations throughout the state who would be the best man to aid in this class of promotion work. It would be much easier for him to pass out the plum to a politician for services rendered—but would the state gain anything in the way of increased development of its resources by such action?

CONGRATULATIONS!

Bismarck High School is to be congratulated on the success of her publications in the newspaper contest held at the University of North Dakota in connection with the high school conference there. "Prairie Breezes," the high school annual, won first prize and "Pep," the high school newspaper was awarded third place. The award is especially impressive in view of the fact that "Prairie Breezes" is the newest venture of the high school into the publication field.

Many factors entered into the award of the judges, the publications being judged as to the quality of content, arrangement, selection of material and typography.

The Tribune is especially pleased over the victories because the publications are from its press, and a high quality of printing was a factor before the judges, but would not want by this mere statement of fact to in any way detract from the splendid victory of the boys and girls in charge of the publications. It was their untiring effort and the cooperation of other high school students, the faculty and the merchants and citizens of the city which made it possible for Bismarck High School to win such a signal honor.

CLEVER

A clever new trick for airplanes is invented by an Englishman. It's a revolving platform, which moves rapidly back as the airplane starts ahead, treadmill fashion, so the plane is going fast when it manages to get off the platform. This does away with the necessity of gliding over a long field before rising. Like the ball moving rapidly but staying on the umbrella twirled in the opposite direction by the Jap vaudeville actor.

It's quite possible that houses will have roofs like this later, in the day of flying flivvers.

NOISE

A device that eliminates undesirable noises has been invented by Professor G. W. Stewart of the University of Iowa. Our ears work similarly, suppressing countless millions of sounds, the very high and the very low. We are tuned to receive only certain vibrations—above them or below, silence. Otherwise we would be hearing such frightful bedlam as the sound of the planets and stars frictioning through the ether, though it might be harmony—what the ancients called "the music of the spheres."

ATHLETES

The best physical specimens in America—250 of them—will represent us in the Olympic games to be held next year in Paris. This is 100 fewer than we had at Antwerp in 1920. Suggestion to the League of Nations or any other profound organization: Don't hold your meeting in Paris next year if you want people to learn about it.

COTTON

Big man in the cotton industry, Frederick K. Rupprecht, analyzes the cotton situation and fears that "all the American cotton in the world will be consumed by September 1. Since the new crop is not available in the south until about October 15 and in foreign countries until about November 15, spindles may have to be idle for some weeks."

The outlook is for prosperity in southern states.

EDITORIAL REVIEW

Comments reproduced in this column are the opinion of the editor of The Tribune. They are presented here in order that the public may know the side of important issues which are being discussed in the press of the day.

PRET'S FOR SENATOR

Governor Preus might have had the succession to his friend Senator Nelson by the simple route of appointment. He could have resigned his office as governor; Lieutenant-Governor Collins would have become governor; and as governor he would have appointed Mr. Preus to the senate vacancy. He chooses not to accept the honor in this way. He has called a special election instead. Doubtless he will become a candidate in that election, by all means he should.

Beyond doubt, this is the better way, and the governor's choice does him great credit. Refusing a certainty because he does not believe that it would be in good taste to embrace it, he takes his chances with the field in an election.

This despite the known fact that he was the choice of the late Senator Nelson as his successor, and the very obvious fact that there was a widespread demand that he accept the appointment in the way that had been outlined.

This sound and wise choice cannot fail to increase the conviction that he is fit to be senator, fit to step into the vacancy created by the passing of his close friend and political mentor through many years.

Governor Preus is also sound and wise in calling for a primary election to precede the special convention rather than to summon a convention. A legislature just adjourned emphatically on record against the convention, repealing the pre-primary convention law with only a few negative votes. This beyond doubt reflects the will of the state, and that will the governor is heeding when he calls for a primary election.

There will be other candidates, naturally; candidates for the primaries and candidates at the election. But the states of having Governor Preus succeed Senator Nelson is so manifest that it seems beyond doubt that whoever may enter the field, a majority will select Governor Preus as the man to go to Washington and take up the work that his friend has just laid down—Duluth Herald.

WHY NOT BROADAXE?

John Andrews picked the wrong name for his League paper. He ought to have called it the Broadaxe, for it is snapping the heads off all the League League League and League League League. The things he says about the late Senator Nelson are in his last issue, and the things he says about the late Senator Nelson are in his last issue, and the things he says about the late Senator Nelson are in his last issue.

ADVENTURE OF THE TWINS

By Olive Barton Roberts

"Where to next?" asked Nancy. When she and Nick had helped the little Ragdolls to spring clean Mister Owl's apartment in Maple Tree Flats.

"Why, let's see! I think we'd better be cleaning Scramble Squirrel's summer apartment next," said Mister Tatters.

So all the Ragdolls gathered up their buckets and scrubbing brushes and mops and brooms and things and slid down the elevator shaft in the maple tree until they came to Mister Squirrel's front door.

Nancy went in first. Having their magical shoes the Twins could walk themselves any size at all and now they were no larger than the Ragdolls.

"My, oh my! It's as dusty as a miller," cried Nancy, looking around. "Nick, you beat the carpets and I'll clean the pantry and Mister Tatters, you and the rest of the Ragdolls can scrub the walls and floors."

Very soon the apartment of Mister Squirrel was as busy as a beehive. Dirt flew like magic and things grew as bright as new pennies.

"Come here and help me, Nick," called Nancy by and bye. "When Jack Frost chased Mister Squirrel off to Dreamland last fall he left some nuts behind. And they can't be good now. Let's throw them out."

So the Twins emptied the nut-bin, and Rag Tag, the Raggy, brought a big basket and carried them all away to dear knows where.

"Now, that's done!" declared Nancy briskly.

"What's done?" asked a sleepy voice. And there stood Scramble Squirrel himself!

"Why, your house is as clean as a band box," announced Nancy proudly. "We just got done throwing out the last of your old nuts and acorns and things so you'll have room for new ones."

"What!" shrieked Scramble, suddenly wide awake, rushing over and looking into his empty nut-bin. "My precious nuts! There won't be new ones for eight months and those weren't bad at all! I've used them all winter off and on."

"Rag Tag!" called busy Nancy. "Get your basket and bring all those nuts back as fast as you can."

And only then did Scramble remember his manners and thank them.

LESLIE PRESCOTT TO HER MOTHER, MRS. JOSEPH GRAYES HAMILTON

DEAREST, DEAREST MOTHER: I wish you and dad would just pack up your things and come over and see our new apartment. It is perfectly wonderful and really, mother, I'm a very good cook. With some help from the Woman's Exchange and the potteries I get along famously.

Jack told me the other night that he never was so happy in his life and I wish you could see with what pride he showed his chief from the advertising company all over it.

"My wife did all this by herself and I never knew one word about it until she surprised me," he said. "Isn't she wonderful?"

When they sit down to dinner Mr. James, that is Jack's chief's name said that he believed he would get married himself if he could have as nice food as he was eating.

Of course I didn't tell him that the chicken was from the potteries, the angel food cake from the Woman's Exchange and the ice cream from the confectioners. I managed to make the salad and cook the potatoes and peas.

It was a nice dinner, mother, and the table with all our wedding silver looked perfectly scrumptious. You would be proud of your child although I have a hank to pick with you that you did not teach me a little more about cooking. You know I don't due to react a leg of lamb or bake a chicken or do any of those things yet. I am so afraid they will be spoiled. And I don't want to get in bad with Jack.

The most expensive thing about a house is company.

When I think, mother dear, that this never could have been if I hadn't been so generous to me, I shall never cease to be grateful to you.

Jack got a bun yesterday on a new contract and he says we can have lots of new things.

He told me the evening after the chief was here that the next morning he had called him into his office and told him that with such a splendid, capable and charming wife as I, he could not help but get along.

There, I think I have told you enough about myself. I am just going to say "I love you" and save the rest for the next time. Why doesn't Alice write? LESLIE.

Letter From Leslie Prescott to the Gay Little Marquise

Why do they call men the consistent sex, little Marquise? Did you find out?

Jack has completely forgotten that he found so much fault with me over the house. You would think to hear him talk to his friends, that the whole plan and its carrying out had suited him from the first.

Why, oh why did he not accept it as graciously and sweetly as he does now instead of making me thoroughly unhappy over the first thing I ever did for him?

I have tried to forgive him and I guess I have, but oh little secret confidant, I cannot forget that he made me more miserable than I had ever been before in my life.

I could not tell this in my letter to mother, but I can tell it to you.

Gray handed him Gus Briskow's opinion, and the management thereof, the ink upon which was scarcely dry. "There's the joker. It expires tomorrow night and it will go to the Nelsons. They've double-crossed Mr. Briskow."

"Then don't let them get away with it. Take it yourself."

"It is now three o'clock and this is the golfing season in New York," Gray told him. "I couldn't reach my associates and get any action before Monday."

"No funds of your own available?" "Not enough, at such short notice."

"Well?" "That lease is worth one hundred and sixty thousand dollars, isn't it?"

The banker nodded. "I'm going to sell it before six o'clock for eighty thousand. I know people here who will take it, but I've come first to you. Get together a little syndicate right here in the bank and buy it. I'll agree to take it off your hands within thirty days at one hundred and sixty thousand dollars."

"Is your guaranty any good?" "That is for you to determine. Assume that it is not, and I'll better my first offer. I'll undertake to sell off the land in twenty right here in Dallas, double your money, and divide the profits thereafter with you. It is a safe speculation and a quick one. You know I can put it through."

Mr. Roswell considered briefly before replying. "There's no use denying that we've made money on deals like this—everybody has. So it's nothing new. There's a big play on Ranger stuff and we couldn't lose. But I know nothing about you except the little you've told me. When I go into a deal I put my trust more in the man than the proposition."

"And I trust my own judgment of human character more than that of strangers," Gray said, quickly. "So do you. Thirty days is a long time with me, and the oil business is just my speed. Permit me to remind you that time is flying and that I have given myself only three hours in which to turn this property."

"I like your energy," the banker confessed, "and I'm inclined to bet some of my own money on you. Now—let's see if there are any others here who feel as I do."

It was early evening when Gus Briskow returned to his wife's and his daughter's rooms at the Ajax. He slipped in quietly and sank into a chair.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Calvin Gray occupies the most expensive suite in the most exclusive hotel in Dallas. He makes friends with Gus Briskow, who has struck oil in Ranger, and meets Ma Briskow, Allegheny, the daughter, and Ozark, the son. Bob Parker, daughter of Tom Parker, comes home from college and goes into the land business. She buys and sells for Colonel Henry Nelson, son of Bill Nelson, banker. Gus Briskow tells Gray of a trick that Henry Nelson works on him to beat him out of the sale of some land. Gray offers to take a hand against Nelson, who is his enemy.

NOW GO ON WITH STORY

"You know them Nelsons?" "I know—Henry."

"He's hard-boiled 'n his old man. They got a lot of money behind 'em—no much money to act like he done with me. I sure hate to see him git that Evans' lease for next to nothin', after the way he done. I'd call it cheatin' but—well, I can't handle it."

The man at the window wheeled suddenly and his face was white, his brows were drawn down. "By God!" he cried, tensely. "He won't get it. Where's that option?"

"I got it right here," Briskow handed over a paper. "An' I got the bull title abstract too. Had it all ready for Nelson."

When he had swiftly scanned the document, Gray said: "This deal means little to you, Briskow, but it means much to me, and I'll make it worth something to both of us. At first I thought the time was too short, but I work best when I work fast. You've had your chance and failed. Now then, step aside and let a man run who knows how."

Mr. Roswell, president of the bank where Gray had first made himself known, was a shrewd, forceful man who had attained a position in business and had served at a time of life when he could well afford to indulge his likes and dislikes.

Roswell had liked Gray upon their first meeting, and that liking had deepened. Owing to that fact, he had neglected to secure a report upon him, assuring himself that there was always time for such formalities. He was cordial today when Gray strode into his office bringing Gus Briskow with him.

The banker listened with interest to what he was told, then he studied the map that Briskow spread upon his desk showing the location of his own and other near-by wells.

"That looks like a sure thing," Roswell said, finally. "Was sure a Roaming in oil can be. What is on your mind?"

"I'd like to get the opinion of the bank's oil expert," Gray told him. "This was a matter easily disposed of, the expert was summoned and he rendered a prompt opinion. He knew the property; he considered it a cheap lease at a thousand dollars an acre. It was proven stuff and within thirty days it would probably triple in value. When he had gone, the banker smiled."

"Well, Gray," said he, "I knew you'd land something good. You're a hustler. You'll make a fortune out of that land."

Gray handed him Gus Briskow's opinion, and the management thereof, the ink upon which was scarcely dry. "There's the joker. It expires tomorrow night and it will go to the Nelsons. They've double-crossed Mr. Briskow."

run over," Ma Briskow exclaimed. "I feel like I wans," the nester declared, with a grin. "Say! Mister Gray sold the Evans' lease an'—we got more money than ever."

"Then mebbe you can afford a new suit," Allie told him. "You look like sin."

Her father nodded, but his mind was full of the incidents of that afternoon and he began at once to recount them. He told the story badly, but in a language that the women understood. He had not gone far, however, when the girl interrupted him to exclaim:

"Wait! Why, Pa? You mean to say Mister Gray ain't got no money?"

"He had less 'n a hundred dollars. An' him livin' here like a king with everybody bowin' an' scrapin'!"

Ignoring the effect upon Allie of this intelligence, he continued his story. "All I done was set around while him an' them bank people talked it over," he said, finally. "Then they got their lawyer in an' he examined the title papers. Seemed like he'd never git through, but he did, an' they signed some things and we come out, an' Mister Gray told me I'd made forty-eight thousand dollars."

"Goodness me!" Ma Briskow's eyes widened. "Why, that Evans' place ain't wuth the taxes."

"It's more'n likely wuth a million. But think! Him tellin' me I'd made forty-eight thousand dollars! It give me a jolt, an' I says I didn't make it. I told him I'd fell down an' he told me the bull thing over to him. He says that's made forty-eight thousand," I says."

"What?" Allie inquired, sharply. Then when her father had repeated himself, she asked with even greater intensity: "What'd he say to that? He didn't take it, did he?"

"He laughed kinda queer, an' says all I got to do to give him a good night's rest is to wire Henry Nelson the deal's closed. An' him with less 'n a hundred dollars!"

Allie spoke again in great relief. "Lord! You give me a turn." Her expression altered, her lips parted in a slow smile. "So! he's not, eh? Fore as we wans. Well, I declare!"

She rose and turned her back upon her father.

"No, he ain't pore," Briskow said, irritably. "Not now he ain't. I says it's his deal an' his money, an' we got plenty. An' I stuck to it."

Allie wheeled suddenly at this announcement. She uttered a cry of protest; then, "What are you talkin' about?" she roughly demanded.

"We had some argyment an' I got kinda riled. Finally he says if I feel that way well go pardners. He wouldn't listen to nuthin' else, an'—that's how it stands. He made twenty-four thousand an' I—"

"You—You fool!"

Gus Briskow looked up with a start to find his daughter standing over him, her face ablaze, her deep bosom heaving. He stared at her in frank amazement, doubting his senses. Never had Allegheny used toward him a

FAVORS WILLS IF DEMPSEY IS VICTOR JULY 4

Neither Willard Nor Firpo Looked Upon With Favor By Kearns

Great Falls, Mont., May 21.—The heavyweight battle for the championship honors next Labor day will not be between Dempsey and Willard or Firpo, said Jack Kearns, manager of Jack Dempsey, heavyweight champion of the world but will be between Dempsey and Harry Wills, colored heavyweight fighter.

"This statement," said Kearns to an Associated Press correspondent, "is of course, predicated upon Dempsey winning over Tommy Gibbons in the championship battle of the world in Shelby, July 4."

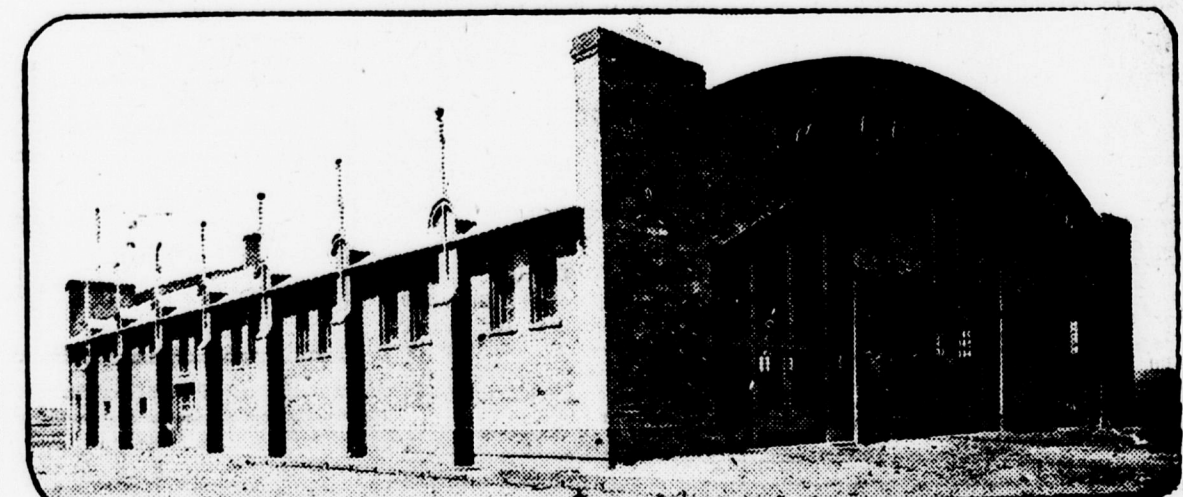

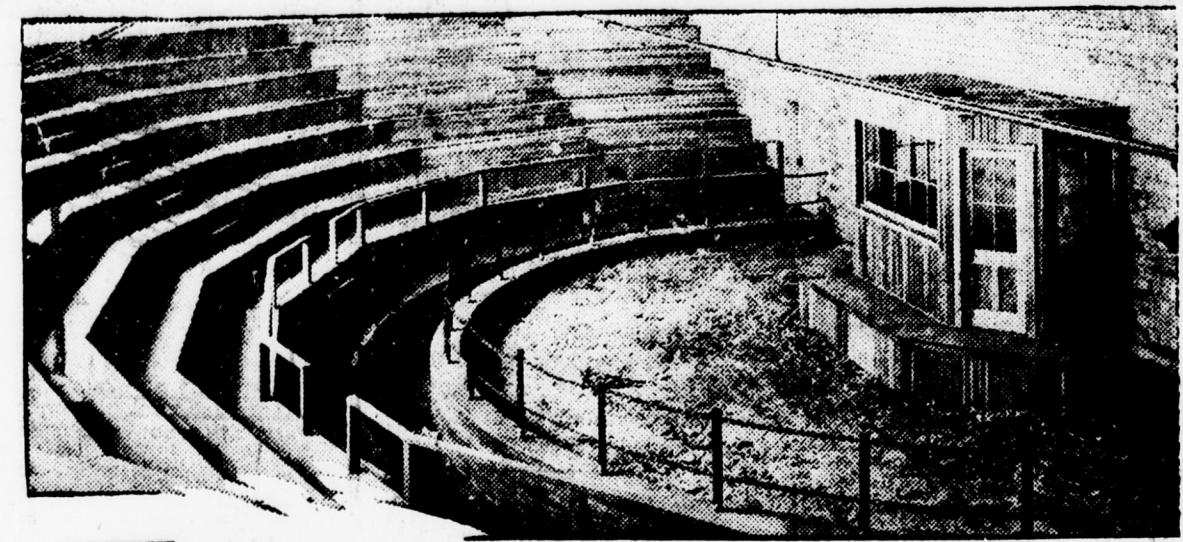

"Neither Willard nor Firpo, which ever may win in their fight, would make a drawing card equal to Wills nor be as hard to crack. Dempsey does not draw the color line and is willing to go against Wills Labor day if a satisfactory offer is made, and Dempsey holds the belt against Gibbons in the Shelby fight."

Kearns, arrived in Great Falls Friday night and will go to Shelby Tuesday to see what progress is being made for a battle July 4. On his return here the latter part of the week, he will remain with Dempsey at the training camp until July 4.

The contractors of the Shelby arena are putting a large crew of men to work and are to rush it to completion by June 30. Dempsey has not started heavy work as yet but took a five mile road workout with George Godfrey, the giant negro, shadow boxed ten rounds and skipped the rope for 45 minutes.

He looks in the best of condition and expresses himself as well pleased with his camp on the Missouri river. Tommy Gibbons of St. Paul, contender for the championship against Dempsey, arrived in Great Falls Sunday and was met by the municipal band.

Great Falls, Mont., May 21.—Great Falls boasts of its civic pride—even in sporting matters. And well it may!

It's people from Mayor H. B. Mitchell on down, are boosting it always.

For years they've longed for the chance to go out and sell their city to the world. The forthcoming Dempsey-Gibbons classic has brought that opportunity. And they've seized it eagerly.

Wants "Piece of Pie" Word got abroad a few weeks back that the little town of Shelby, county seat of Toole county, 100 miles north of here, was planning "open house" on Independence Day.

Great Falls couldn't get a world's championship prize fight, for Shelby already had clinched it. But, argued the city dads, it surely was entitled to a piece of the pie.

Public officials, Chamber of Commerce workers and civic leaders put their heads together. A couple preliminary conferences and a course of action was evolved.

Why not have the fighters—Jack Dempsey, world's heavyweight champion and Tom Gibbons, who aspires to be champion—establish their training quarters in Great Falls?

City Awaits Fighters Now in Great Falls are several useful structures which stand as monuments to civic pride. One is the Livestock Pavilion. Another is the Municipal Market Hall.

Dempsey, it was decided, could set up shop in the Livestock building. And Gibbons could move into the market house.

In some cities a suggestion to encourage pugilists like this would be met with a howl and cry from more than one side. Not so in Great Falls. Civic pride said it was the proper thing. And that settled it.

So it appears today that the four-footed aristocracy and the scientific art of horticulture must retire for awhile in favor of the manly art of fisticuffs.

Jack and Tom have been invited. Great Falls is waiting only to welcome them. Waiting, too, for the vanguard of sportsmen, newspapermen and others who trail in their wake.

Great Falls knows "it pays to advertise."

When hard hit, he appears to fly into a rage and starts swinging his hairy arms in such a wild manner that a dozen of them, instead of two, appear to be flying through the air. No doubt his opponent imagines he can see a hundred gloves being thrown in his direction.

Unquestionably Luis is crude as far as ring science goes. Yet he is perhaps Dempsey's most dangerous rival. He has proved he can take punishment.

Likewise he has shown that he can hit. The veteran Bill Brennan spent a couple of weeks in a hospital after Firpo had knocked him out in their recent bout.

Best of all Firpo likes to fight. He is a cave man of the ring. He fears no one.

Jess Never Better. Willard probably never entered the ring in better shape than he did last Saturday. Despite his 40 and more years, he showed plenty of stamina.

He routed the belief of many experts that he must win inside of five rounds. The experts thought he would tire rapidly after going that distance.

Jess Willard versus Luis Firpo! That is the next big attraction for New York fight fans. In all probability, Tex Rickard already has the bout closed. Such a meeting should draw close to $1,000,000 if staged at the Yankee stadium.

It would be a battle of giants. Both Firpo and Willard are supermen physically.

It should be a contest worth seeing, provided you like the heavyweights.

I'll take the little fellows for mine. With them action and science take the place of brute strength.

Shelby, Mont., May 21.—Sportdom's eyes are turned upon Shelby today. A few weeks ago the little county seat of Toole county, in the center of the Kevin Sanburat oil field of northern Montana, was unheralded and unknown. Scarcely anything was heard about it outside its own immediate sphere.

But today its fame has spread across the continent. Shelby's name is emblazoned now in bold-faced headlines in newspapers all over the land.

For this, Shelby can thank Loy J. Molunby and the other promoters—nearly all American Legion men—of the Jack Dempsey-Tom Gibbons titular heavyweight bout. It will be fought here July 4.

Shelby is busy planning accommodations for the thousands of people who will come to see the "fireworks." New hotels and boarding houses are springing up almost overnight.

Special trains, carrying hundreds of Pullman cars, will be run into town before the fight. Construction of miles of sidetracks has commenced.

SO THIS IS SHELBY! DOESN'T LOOK ANY DIFFERENT THAN ANY OTHER LITTLE TOWN IN THE NORTHERN MONTANA OIL BELT. BUT IT IS! IT'S CELEBRATING THE FOURTH OF JULY WITH A WORLD'S CHAMPIONSHIP PUGILISTIC EXHIBITION IN WHICH JACK DEMPSEY AND TOM GIBBONS WILL PLAY THE LEADING ROLES. HERE'S THE MAIN STREET.

ATHLETICS GO AFTER 7 WINS WITH TIGERS

Connie Mack's Sensational Ex-Cellarites Again Tame Detroit Team

Chicago, May 21.—Having won six games in a row the Philadelphia Athletics will try to make it a lucky seventh in the contest with the somewhat tamed Tiger's at Detroit today.

The Athletics overwhelmed Detroit yesterday 8 to 1.

The New York Yankees rang up their seventh consecutive victory in defeating Chicago, 3 to 2. Wallie Schang, Yankee backstop who has been on the sick list for a few days, made a home-run in the fifth and Babe Ruth made three hits.

The St. Louis Browns interrupted their losing streak of four games by taking a 10-inning, 9 to 8 battle with Washington.

Covaleskie, the Cleveland Indian star twirler, disproved the theory that pitchers cannot hit, by singling in the fifth and driving in the only run of an eight-inning game with Boston. Rain caused the game to be called.

Playing before a record National League crowd the New York Giants overwhelmed the St. Louis Cardinals, who trail the world's champions in second place. The score was 14 to 4.

In the only other National League game Brooklyn defeated Cincinnati, 5 to 3. Leo Dickerman, rookie pitcher, turned in his fourth straight victory.

Jess Comes Back Smiling After Argentine Luis Arrives

WILLARD-FIRPO CLASH BY BILLY EVANS.

Jess Willard is back. Luis Firpo has arrived.

These two decisions stand out as the results of last Saturday's big heavyweight elimination contests at the Yankee stadium in New York. Willard, the so-called old man of the ring, proved that he is far from through. He temporarily shunted into the discard the old adage that youth must be served.

The aged Kansas took everything that the youthful Iowa could offer, and smiled. Then to show he still retained the old-time punch, he sent Johnson sprawling to the floor with a right uppercut as the bell rang at the end of the eleventh round.

Firpo Biggest Hit. It was a clean-cut knockout. And when the bell sounded for round 12, Johnson was unable to respond. Willard had come back.

Luis Firpo made perhaps the most pronounced hit of the day. The easy manner in which the Argentine wallower disposed of the much touted Jack McAuliffe of Detroit makes Firpo loom up as a likely contender for the heavyweight title.

Luis Firpo is the "Absymal Brute" of the late Jack London's ring fiction. Firpo, the silent man of the ring, who never seems to smile, who knows fighting only as a serious business, has yet to be put to a serious test. Willard looms just ahead.

While in New York recently, I made a survey of the training camps of Willard, Firpo, McAuliffe and Johnson. At the same time I had a chance to see Johnson in action against Fred Fulton.

Floyd Lacks Punch. I voiced the opinion then that Willard and Firpo were far the most impressive. The result of the elimination tourney has borne out that opinion.

Floyd Johnson's showing in the Fulton bout was a distinct disappointment. He hit Fulton with everything but the ceiling. But the much plastered plasterer took everything Johnson sent his way. He still was fighting back at the end of the twelfth and final round.

Johnson Game Fighter. In the Fulton bout, Johnson made it apparent that his punch packed no dynamite. In the Willard bout the performance was repeated. Johnson seemed to have no trouble reaching big Jess, but there was nothing back of his punches.

Johnson is one of the gamest fighters I ever have seen in action. He can take it and keep coming. If his knowledge of the ring game, plus his punch, were equal to his gameness, Jack Dempsey wouldn't have a chance with the Iowa farmer boy.

But Floyd lacks experience and the ring technique that goes with it. He throws his punches over hard, but apparently doesn't deliver them properly.

The defeat of Johnson at the hands of Willard doesn't mean that he is through. Johnson has youth and courage—two assets capable of surmounting all other obstacles of the ring.

Firpo, as I watched him in training, seemed to have little or no science. When he landed a punch on a sparring partner, though even with the heavy gloves used in the gymnasium, it was evident he had something back of every swing. Each punch perceptibly jarred his sparring mates.

Luis Clumsy Yet Clever.

Firpo is an awkward, clever fighter, who regards fighting in a business way, and likes it.

TOOLS OF HIS TRADE

Common law recognizes and upholds the right of a workman to his tools — his basic means of survival and maintenance.

The tools of a business enterprise are no less essential. It must have and use certain instrumentalities to get business, to do business and to hold business.

Having them, it grows and brings forth fruit — provided the tools are intelligently directed.

Deprived of them, it becomes stunted, withers, and eventually dies — no amount of intelligence can save it, lacking means of application.

The prime concern of any business is to get orders. It must have and use personal solicitors and advertising—the twin tools of salesmanship.

And when a business is ordered by its bank to curtail or stop the use of these productive forces — either or both—that business is being deprived of its tools.

Give business the right to progress!

WINTER CROP REPORTS LEAD TO INCREASES

Price Buiges Noted in Early Trading on the Wheat Market

Chicago, May 21.—Unfavorable reports about the condition of the winter crop led to price upturns in the wheat market today during the early dealings. Kansas reports in particular were of a bullish character and there was also special attention given to advance reports from Ohio, Indiana and Illinois. Offerings were only moderate and the market proved responsive to conservative buying. Initial prices which varied from the same as Saturday's finish to one-half cents higher, with July $1.15 1/2 to $1.16 1/2 and September $1.14 to $1.14 1/2 were followed by material gains all around.

Subsequently the stock market had a depressing effect on wheat values but was more than counterbalanced later by announcement of a big decrease in the U. S. visible supply. The close was unsettled, 1/4 to 1/2 cents net higher, July $1.16 1/2 to $1.16 3/4 and September $1.14 1/2 to $1.14 3/4.

CHICAGO LIVESTOCK

Chicago, May 21.—Hog receipts 58,000. Uneven, mostly 10 to 20 cents lower. Top $7.50. Fairly active. Cattle receipts 12,000. Beef steers, butcher-shed stock strong to 15 cents higher. WINTER CROP REPORTS LEAD TO INCREASES

Price Bulges Noted in Early Trading on the Wheat Market

Chicago, May 21.—Unfavorable reports about the condition of the winter crop led to price upturns in the winter wheat market today during the early dealings. Kansas reports in particular were of a bullish character and there was also special attention given to advance reports from Ohio, Indiana and Illinois. Initial prices which varied from the same as Saturday's finish to one-half cents higher, with July $1.15 1/2 to $1.16 1/2 and September $1.14 to $1.14 1/2 were followed by material gains all around.

Subsequently the stock market had a depressing effect on wheat values but was more than counterbalanced later by announcement of a big decrease in the U. S. visible supply. The close was unsettled, 1/2 to 3/4 cents net higher, July $1.16 1/2 to $1.16 3/4 and September $1.14 1/2 to $1.14 3/4.

FAVORS WILLS IF DEMPSEY IS VICTOR JULY 4

Neither Willard Nor Firpo Looked Upon With Favor
By Kearns

Great Falls, Mont., May 21.—The heavyweight battle for the championship honors next Labor day will not be between Dempsey and Willard or Firpo and Jack Kearns, manager of Firpo, but between Dempsey and Harry Wills, and between Firpo and Harry Wills, and not between Dempsey and Harry Wills, and not between Firpo and Harry Wills.

"The statement," said Kearns, to an Associated Press correspondent, "is of course, predicated upon Dempsey winning over Tommy Gibbons in the championship battle of the world in Shelby, July 4."

"Neither Willard nor Firpo, who ever may win in their fight, would make a drawing card equal to Wills nor be as hard to crack. Dempsey does not draw the color line and is willing to go against Wills Labor day if a satisfactory offer is made, and Dempsey holds the belt against Gibbons in the Shelby fight."

Kearns, arrived in Great Falls Friday night and will go to Shelby Tuesday to see what progress is being made for the battle July 4. On his return here the latter part of the week, he will remain with Dempsey at the training camp until July 1.

The contractors of the Shelby arena are putting a large crew of men to work and are to rush it to completion by June 30. Dempsey has not started heavy work as yet but took a five mile road workout with George Godfrey, the giant negro, shadow boxed ten rounds and skipped the rope for 15 minutes.

He looks in the best of condition and expresses himself as well pleased with his camp on the Missouri river.

Tommy Gibbons of St. Paul, contending for the championship against Dempsey, arrived in Great Falls Sunday and was met by the municipal band.

Fisticuffs' Eyes Turn to Shelby; Neighbor Would Share Her Glory

JACK DEMPSEY WILL GO THROUGH HIS FINAL TRAINING BEFORE HIS FIGHT WITH TOM GIBBONS IN SHELBY, MONT., JULY 4, IN THE MUNICIPAL MARKET HALL IN GREAT FALLS, MONT., ACCORDING TO PRESENT PLANS. THE UPPER PICTURE SHOWS THE RING AND SOME OF THE RINGSIDE SEATS. THE STRUCTURE AT THE BOTTOM—THE LIVESTOCK PAVILION IN GREAT FALLS—HAS BEEN TENDERED TO GIBBONS FOR HIS FINAL WORKOUTS.

Great Falls, Mont., May 21.—Great Falls boasts of its civic pride even in sporting matters.

It's people from Mayor H. B. Mitchell on down, are hoisting it always.

For years they've looked for the chance to go out and sell their city to the world. The forthcoming Dempsey-Gibbons classic has brought that opportunity and they've seized it eagerly.

Wants "Piece of Pie"
Word got abroad a few weeks back that the little town of Shelby, county seat of Teton county, 100 miles north of here, was planning "open house" on Independence Day.

Great Falls couldn't get a world-championship prize fight, for Shelby already had booked it. But, against the odds, it surely was entitled to a piece of the pie.

Public officials, Chamber of Commerce workers and civic leaders put their heads together. A couple preliminary conferences and a course of action was evolved.

Why not have the fighters, Jack Dempsey, world's heavyweight champion and Tom Gibbons, who aspires to be champion—establish their training quarters in Great Falls?

City Awaits Fighters
Now in Great Falls are several useful structures which stand as monuments to civic pride. One is the Livestock Pavilion. Another is the Municipal Market Hall.

Dempsey, it was decided, could set up shop in the Livestock building. And Gibbons could move into the market house.

In some cities a suggestion to encourage pugilists like this would be met with a howl and cry from more than one side. Not so in Great Falls. Civic pride said it was the proper thing. And that settled it.

So it appears today that the four-footed aristocracy and the scientific art of horticulture must retire for awhile in favor of the manly art of fisticuffs.

Jack and Tom have been invited. Great Falls is waiting only to welcome them. Waiting, too, for the vanguard of sport men, newspapermen and others who trail in their wake.

Great Falls knows "it pay to advertise."

When hard hit, he appears to fly into a rage and starts swinging his heavy arms in such a wild manner that a dozen of them, instead of two, aspires to be champion—establish their training quarters in Great Falls?

Shelby, Mont., May 21.—Sportdom's eyes are turned upon Shelby today. A few weeks ago the little county seat of Teton county, in the center of the Kevin Sunburst oil field of northern Montana, was unknown and unknown. Scarcely anything was heard about it outside its own immediate sphere.

But today its fame has spread across the continent. Shelby's name is emblazoned now in hold-faced headlines in newspapers all over the land.

For this, Shelby can thank Loy J. Molumby and the other promoters—nearly all American Legion men—of the Jack Dempsey-Tom Gibbons titular heavyweight bout. It will be fought here July 4.

Shelby is busy planning accommodations for the thousands of people who will come to see the "fireworks." New hotels and boarding houses are springing up almost overnight.

Special trains, carrying hundreds of Pullman cars, will be run into town before the fight. Construction of miles of sidetracks has commenced.

appear to be flying through the air. No doubt his opponent imagines he can see a hundred gloves being thrown in his direction.

Unquestionably Luis is crude as far as ring science goes. Yet he is perhaps Dempsey's most dangerous rival. He has proved he can take punishment.

Likewise he has shown that he can hit. The veteran Bill Brennan spent a couple of weeks in a hospital after Firpo had knocked him out in their recent bout.

Best of all Firpo likes to fight. He is a cave man of the ring. He fears no one.

Jess Never Better.
Willard probably never entered the ring in better shape than he did last Saturday. Despite his 40 and more years, he showed plenty of stamina. He routed the belief of many experts that he must win inside of five rounds. The experts thought he would tire rapidly after going that distance.

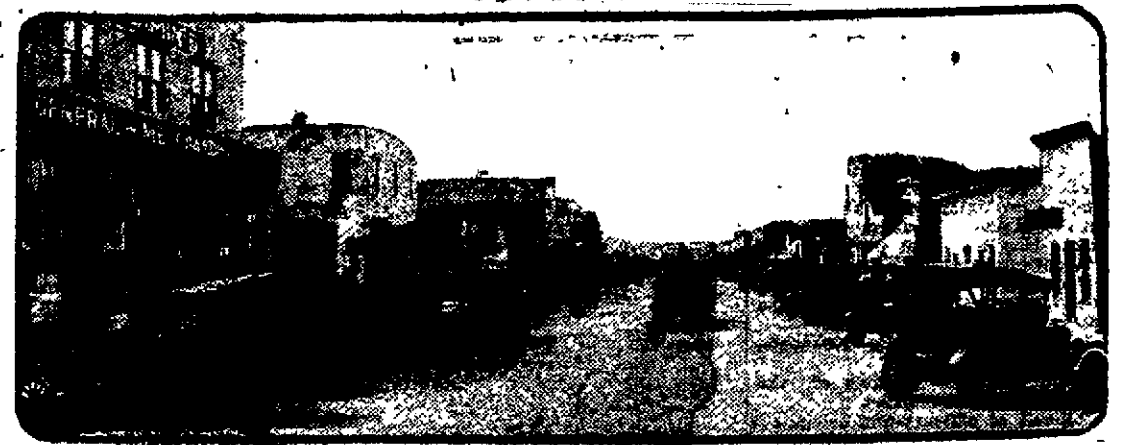

Jess Willard versus Luis Firpo! That is the next big attraction for New York fight fans. In all probability, Tex Rickard already has the bout closed. Such a meeting should draw close to $1,000,000 if staged at the Yankee stadium.

It would be a battle of giants. Both Firpo and Willard are supermen physically.

It should be a contest worth seeing, provided you like the heavyweights.

I'll take the little fellows for mine. With them action and science take the place of brute strength.

SO THIS IS SHELBY! DOESN'T LOOK ANY DIFFERENT THAN ANY OTHER LITTLE TOWN IN THE NORTHERN MONTANA OIL BELT. BUT IT IS! IT'S CELEBRATING THE FOURTH OF JULY WITH A WORLD'S CHAMPIONSHIP PUGILISTIC EXHIBITION IN WHICH JACK DEMPSEY AND TOM GIBBONS WILL PLAY THE LEADING ROLES. HERE'S THE MAIN STREET.

ATHLETICS GO AFTER 7 WINS WITH TIGERS

Connie Mack's Sensational Ex-Cellarites Again Tame Detroit Team

Chicago, May 21.—Having won six games in a row the Philadelphia Athletics will try to make it a lucky seventh in the contest with the somewhat tamed Tiger's at Detroit today.

The Athletics overwhelmed Detroit yesterday 8 to 1.

The New York Yankees rang up their seventh consecutive victory in defeating Chicago, 5 to 2. Wallie Schang, Yankee backstop who has been on the sick list for a few days, made a home-run in the fifth and Babe Ruth made three hits.

The St. Louis Browns interrupted their losing streak of four games by taking a 10-inning, 9 to 8 battle with Washington.

Covaleskie, the Cleveland Indian star twirler, disproved the theory that pitchers cannot hit, by singling in the fifth and driving in the only run of an eight-inning game with Boston. Rain caused the game to be called.

Playing before a record National League crowd the New York Giants overwhelmed the St. Louis Cardinals, who trail the world's champions in second place. The score was 14 to 4.

In the only other National League game Brooklyn defeated Cincinnati, 5 to 3. Leo Dickerman, rookie pitcher, turned in his fourth straight victory.

CARSON WINS OVER MANDAN

Mandan's Slope league team opened at Carson yesterday, and was defeated 10 to 3.

TOOLS OF HIS TRADE

Common law recognizes and upholds the right of a workman to his tools — his basic means of survival and maintenance.

The prime concern of any business is to get orders. It must have and use personal solicitors and advertising—the twin tools of salesmanship.

And when a business is ordered by its bank to curtail or stop the use of these productive forces — either or both—that business is being deprived of its tools.

Give business the right to progress!

The tools of a business enterprise are no less essential. It must have and use certain instrumentalities to get business, to do business and to hold business.

Having them, it grows and brings forth fruit — provided the tools are intelligently directed.

Deprived of them, it becomes stunted, withers, and eventually dies —no amount of intelligence can save it, lacking means of application.

The prime concern of any business is to get orders. It must have and use personal solicitors and advertising—the twin tools of salesmanship.

And when a business is ordered by its bank to curtail or stop the use of these productive forces — either or both—that business is being deprived of its tools.

Annual Events Scheduled to Take Place at Baseball Park

Two hundred boys representing the Wm. M. Rickard and the St. Mary's schools will compete for the beautiful Elk Trophy on Wednesday afternoon at the Ball Park. The events will commence at 2:00 o'clock.

The Rickard boys won the Trophy last year and a determined effort will be made by the other schools to win the Trophy this year. There will be four athletic events: the Running Broad Jump, the running High Jump, the Base Ball Throw and the Sprints. Each boy will compete in all four events.

The boys are classified according to age and weight. There is a different scoring for each class. In this way a small boy can compete with a big boy for the little fellow gets a handicap. Another feature of the meet is that every boy will be given credit for his performance. In this way each boy can earn points for his school. The school making the highest average per enrollment wins the Trophy. Therefore the boy who fails to compete is disloyal to his schoolmates.

Seventy-five officials are necessary to handle the eight hundred entries.

The boys in athletic attire will assemble at the Court House Wednesday at 1:15 o'clock the officials will assemble at the same place at 1:30 o'clock where the group will be photographed and final instructions will be given.

It is very important that the officials as well as the boys get full instructions at the Court House and not wait until they get to the Athletic grounds where there will be much confusion.

NEW TABERT BILL PASSES

Designed to Prevent Interminable Delay in Trial

Tallahassee, Fla., May 21.—The house of representatives this morning passed 49 to 9 a bill which would prevent more than one trial judge being disqualified in this state on unproven charges by the defense that he is prejudiced.

Action on the bill today was precipitated by the disqualification of Judge Mallory Horne from presiding in the case of Walter Higginbotham, charged with the murder of Martin Tabert of North Dakota.

SLAIN SOVIET ENVOY BURIED

Great Crowds Assemble at Last Rites for Vorovsky

Moscow, May 21.—The body of Basil Vorovsky, the Soviet representative at the Lausanne conference who was assassinated on May 10, was buried last evening beside the walls of the historic Kremlin. A crowd that placed the great square and overflowed into the streets beyond gathered in the bright sunshine of the summer evening to witness the simple ceremony. More than 100 persons escorted the body from the railroad station to the square.

3 MISSING IN CLODBURST

Sayre, Okla., May 21.—Three persons were missing here after a cloudburst last night which precipitated six inches of rain in 45 minutes. Short creek was out of its banks and had spread into a stream five blocks through the middle of the city. The water had receded today but not until nearly 300 farm laborers, oil field workers and their families had been rescued from the top of their tents, houses, trees and wagons.

GOPHER LAW HELD INVALID

Washington, May 21.—The Minnesota statute which makes a railroad liable for action in that state if it maintains an agency there was found obnoxious to the federal constitution and declared void by the supreme court today in a case brought by the Farmers Co-operative Equity company against the Director-General of Railroads.

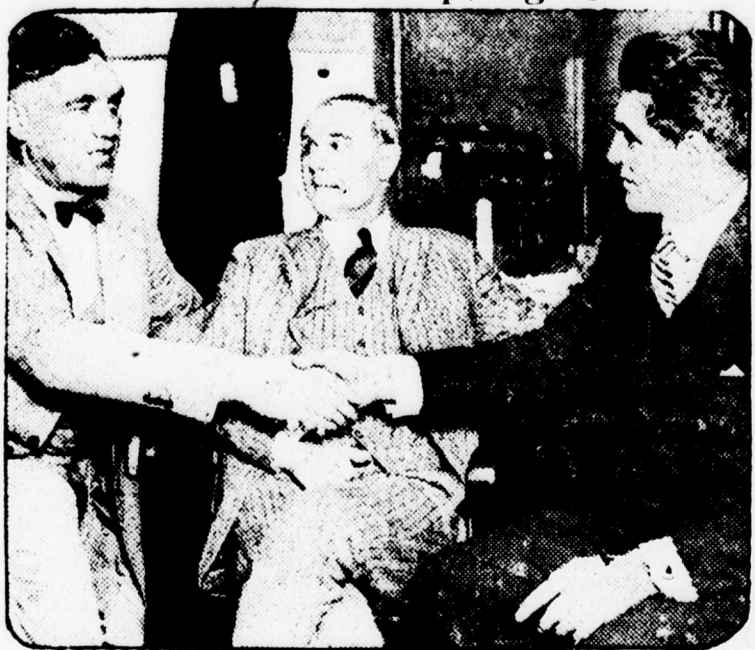

The court took the position that the law was a restraint on interstate commerce.

OFFERS SLOGAN FOR BISMARCK

"As Friend to Friend, Bismarck Welcomes You."

This slogan, suggested by Richard Brandon, advertising manager of The Tribune, was before directors of the Association of Commerce today. The slogan favorably impressed the directors. No direct action was taken, but it is probable the slogan may be used on literature at least until a new campaign for a slogan is made and definite action taken.

Willard and Firpo Agree

Willard and Firpo, each a victor in recent heavyweight battles, meet with Tex Rickard (center) and agree to meet in the ring at a place designated by Rickard, the bout to be held not later than July 7.

AMERICA WORLD'S TRUST COMPANY

By THEODORE G. SMITH, President, Trust Company Division, American Bankers Association

The trust companies of the United States are custodians of nearly thirteen billion dollars of assets to be used in advancing industry, commerce and trade. This word "trust" means something more than a term of trade.

It indicates trustworthiness and responsibility. It measures vast confidence which millions of citizens repose in institutions that can be trusted. It is well, occasionally, to ask ourselves what life implies, what our personal and corporate life implies. It is wholesome, at such a time as this in human affairs, when the world hears many expressions of lack of confidence, when distrust and sorrow are speaking loudly in economic, social and political life, to remember that there are some men and some institutions that are and can be trusted. The note of trust cannot be too loudly sounded in the entire world today.

Europe is of value to us only as Europe is a going concern. The only way Europe's debt can be liquidated is through continuance in business. This involves political and social rehabilitation as well as economic. To this rehabilitation it is America's duty as creditor to contribute.

The adjustment of international indebtedness must be made while new business is being done. It is part of America's trusted obligation to use its unique position by assisting, with profit to herself and to the borrowers, the progress of economic production and distribution in all promising countries. That is part of the day's work, and the day's work must meet the world's need.

FINANCIAL THINGS THAT 'AIN'T SO'

By FRANCIS H. SISON, Chairman, Public Relations Commission, American Bankers Association

Josh Billings' famous observation that "the trouble with the American people is not so much their ignorance as the tremendous number of things they know that ain't so," has particular application to popular "information" on financial subjects today. Among these "ain't so's" of common belief are:

The view that a high tariff assures any real protection to American production; The theory that highly restricted immigration is of benefit to American labor; The impression that the Federal Reserve Board was responsible for the deflation in commodity prices in 1920 and 1921;

The idea that the United States can maintain an isolated position in world affairs; The notion that railroad stocks are watered; The illusion that Wall Street dictates money or credit conditions; The fancy that the interest of any class or section can be permanently furthered at the expense of the general interest; The phantasy that fiat currency can add to the wealth of the nation; The delusion that capitalism is responsible for economic and social ills.

These beliefs have been propagated by catch phrases, not by proof. Some of them serve narrow, selfish interests. Others give psychological discontent something to blame for troubles imaginary or rising from other causes. None of them help the solution of public problems. Until their distorting influence is eradicated from public opinion they will confuse the real issues and make for economic unsettlement.

BILLION WAR BILL OF U. S. IS INCREASED

New Claims Are Added Against Germany Growing Out of the War

Washington, May 21.—With a war bill aggregating one billion four hundred seventy-nine million dollars already presented against Germany by the United States on behalf of itself and citizens to the mixed claims commission a considerable number of other claims await settlement through diplomatic channels. The Lusitania claims head the commission's docket.

Most of the 12,400 claims filed, it is said, will be disposed of through decision on test cases. About 100 cases of such cases have been prepared, covering the various causes for claims. The United States government claims are regarded as in a special class. The others arise from the Lusitania sinking, other submarine war damage, German raiders' operations, war risk premiums, property seized in Germany or occupied territory damages from German bombs and mines, prize court losses, insurance, parcel post losses, charter losses, loss of personal property by Americans taken prisoners and as debts by Germans to Americans.

Many claims are based on "consequences of war." Many claims promise to be contested by Germany.

COUNTY AGENT IS URGED

A. of C. Directors to Ask Commissioners to Act

Employment of a county agent will be urged upon the board of county commissioners by the Association of Commerce, meeting today, decided to urge the commissioners to act. The matter was turned over to the Agriculture Committee of the Association.

The directors felt that the vote of the citizens for a county agent should be regarded, the county should take advantage of an opportunity to get support of $1,500 to $2,000 a year from the federal government, and it was highly necessary in the development of the dairy industry that the county have an agent.

A HARDWORKING PIECE OF PAPER

The Bank Check and How It Performs Many Different Services for Business.

Americans are the greatest users of bank checks in the world. Less than eight per cent of all business transactions in the United States is conducted with money, or, to put it another way, more than nine out of ten transactions are conducted with commercial instruments, of which one of the most important is the check.

The use of the check has become universal in America because it is one of the simplest yet most efficient business devices ever invented. The bank transactions of Mr. Smith, the storekeeper, illustrate in a general way those of all other business people. Storekeeper Smith's customers pay him for the goods he sells to them both with cash and checks. At the end of the day he counts up the proceeds of the day's business and finds his sales have amounted to, say, $500. What does he do with this money? He owes a large part of it to the other business concerns from which he purchased at wholesale the goods he is selling. Some of these companies are in Mr. Smith's town, and others are located at some distance from it. Even small business would be a clumsy, complicated and time-wasting affair unless it were for the facility of the bank check.

When a Check is Useful Mr. Smith could pay his bills by sending cash by mail, but this method of payment would be unwise, because of the danger of the money being lost in transit. Again, he might go out and buy express or postal money orders for the amounts due, but to do this regularly would require a great deal of his time, and would involve needless expense. Besides, a money order does only half the work a bank check does. Although it is in reality a kind of check drawn by the express company, or by the post office, in favor of some person or firm, it is not returned to Mr. Smith after it has been cashed, but goes back to the express company or to the post office that issued it. On the other hand, a cashed check after it comes back to the bank and is cancelled is returned to Mr.

Smith, who can keep it as a receipt in proof of the fact that his bill has been paid.

More than this, in order to keep accurate records Mr. Smith wants to have one account in which all his receipts can be entered and out of which all payments can be made. He therefore adopts the course that most other business men and women follow. He takes his $500 to the bank, where it is safely kept and can be drawn upon as needed. The teller enters the amount in a small pass book, which is a record of deposits. The pass book is issued in Mr. Smith's name and is handed to him, together with a supply of blank checks. Mr. Smith is now ready to pay his bills by checks up to a total of $500.

A Complete Record

His check will be received at any bank where the indorsement of the person to whom it is made payable, which is written or stamped on the back of the check, is known to be genuine. The bank receiving the check will either pay or credit it to the payee, and then send it on to the bank in which Mr. Smith deposits his money, where the amount will be deducted from his $500 balance. The check, after being properly cancelled, will be returned to him at the end of the month. He will then have a complete record showing that he deposited $500, that he drew checks of, say, $120 to pay some of his bills, that he has a balance left of $380 and that his bills have been duly paid as shown by the cancelled checks with the indorsements upon them.

The bank will pay all checks presented to it bearing Mr. Smith's signature as given on his signature card in any sum covered by the amount of his bank balance, which he continually increases by deposits and decreases by checks drawn against his account. This process of making deposits and issuing checks continues day after day, both the depositor and bank keeping their own records.

Millions of such transactions are handled every day by the banks and trust companies of the United States. In one year more than two hundred and fifty billions of dollars in checks have passed through the New York Clearing House alone. Payments of these vast sums are made without the use of any actual money. A wonderful system has been built up by the use of the small slip of paper we call the bank check. The check is essential to the business and commercial life of the present day.

Charles City, Ia., May 21.—Melvin Steecker, a junior in the Charles City high school, is dead here today from wounds received early Sunday morning when deputy sheriffs mistook him and a boy companion for rum runners and fired upon their automobile.

Because of the high feeling following the lad's death, Deputy Sheriffs, Cutler and Johnson who were detained after the shooting, were taken to Mason City to avoid violence.

The officers were held this morning on a charge of assault with intent to kill.

Could Eat Nothing Without Distress, Says St. Paul Resident—Gains 15 Lbs. Taking Tanlac And Declares She Never Felt Better.

"Tanlac has benefited me far beyond my expectations. I have gained fifteen pounds and never felt better," declared Mrs. Catherine Grabner, highly esteemed resident of 81 Hatch St., St. Paul, Minn.

"The pains I suffered from stomach trouble were enough to double me up. I was nervous, weak and run-down, and my appetite was so far gone that even after I had fixed a tempting meal for my family I had no desire to share it. What little I did eat made me bloated with gas till my breath was nearly shut off. I had terrible dizzy spells, sharp pains between my shoulders, could get no restful sleep, and my housework was a burden.

"But thanks to Tanlac my troubles are over, and one of my greatest pleasures is to recommend this grand medicine. I love my housework now, eat heartily, sleep like a child, and I only hope others will read my experience and find the way to health and happiness."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 37-million bottles sold.

American Red Cross Forces Direct Successful Fight Against Disease Among Many Refugees in Greece

This is to introduce Mrs. Charlotte Heilman of Bound Brook, New Jersey, nursing director of the American Red Cross in Greece. She is the woman upon whom devolved much of the responsibility for the care of a million refugees who last fall and early last winter were unceremoniously swept into Greece from Anatolia and other Turkish-occupied territory. Moreover, it is to Mrs. Charlotte Heilman that much of the success of the American Red Cross campaign against dirt and disease in the ranks of the refugees must be attributed. The metropolitan of Athens is also shown here preaching sanitary discipline to refugees as part of the American Red Cross program.

While reports from more eastern centers of refugee settlement have brought news of pestilence and epidemic in Greece, where the American Red Cross, and particularly Mrs. Heilman and her staff of American nurses, have been handling the refugee situation, enforcing bathing and making delousing one of the essential requirements for the person who sought a meal ticket, epidemics have been nipped in the bud and no contagious disease has been allowed to gain a foothold.

Typhus, the most dreaded of all the winter diseases in the refugee camps, has been kept at a minimum; smallpox has been combated by an extensive vaccination campaign; and now that summer is at hand in Sunny Greece, inoculation against cholera and typhoid is going forward. The American Red Cross has spent in the neighborhood of $2,600,000 in Greece in relieving distress among the refugees and in waging its war upon dirt and disease. Most of it went for food; some of it went for soap; some of it went for medicines. It all came out of the emergency disaster fund maintained by the organization through American charity.

The emergency phase of the problem is rapidly passing.
